SENATE OUSTS OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR

MAJORITY OF STATE SENATORS CONVICT HENRY S. JOHNSTON

Follows Walton To Exile;
Lieutenant Governor
Sworn

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 21.—Another Oklahoma ex-governor—Henry S. Johnston—followed the trail of Jack Walton today after a senate court had ousted him on charges of general incompetency.

Johnston was looking for a job just as Walton did in November, 1923, after the senate had voted him out of the executive mansion.

W. M. Holloway, lieutenant governor, was sworn in as governor last night immediately after Johnston had been found guilty by a majority of the state senators.

Preceding the ex-governor in the exodus from office was Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, Johnston's confidential secretary until recently and who was the storm center of a political battle that started two years ago when Johnston's enemies opened their attack.

Mrs. Hammonds, a youthful appearing woman of 40 and mother of two grown sons resigned when Johnston was suspended two months ago after the house of representatives had impeached him.

Johnston's enemies centered their attack on Mrs. Hammonds. The enemies charged Mrs. Hammonds "ran the state" and was entangled in the corruption alleged to have existed in administration of the state highway department.

Johnston made a desperate attempt to free himself on charges. He was on the witness stand seven days, answering questions from his own attorneys and sidestepping queries from H. Tom Knight and John Head, two of the "self-styled four horsemen" who fought the governor for two years.

When opposition first was manifested against Johnston and Mrs. Hammonds, he refused to dismiss her because, he said, of rumors started by his enemies that his personal relations with the woman secretary were improper.

A charge of improper relations, made in a purported impeachment article voted by the abortive legislature session two years ago was not renewed this session so Johnston said he felt justified in accepting Mrs. Hammonds' resignation.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN DYNAMITING CASE

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—Deputy Sheriff Oscar Sachs of Athens came here today to return Alfred Mecum, 27, of Columbus, who is wanted in Athens on charges of dynamiting a rooming house at Durick, Athens county, on Aug. 21, 1928.

Mecum was arrested last night at a local packing house where he was employed. The arresting officers were Detective Heise and Cable who said they were acting at the request of the Athens prosecutor.

Mecum, a coal miner, was on strike when the rooming house blast occurred, the detectives said. Seventeen men were sleeping in the house at the time. They were said to have been strike-breakers.

Mecum denies the charge.

SEALER TO INSURE FULL BOOZE MEASURE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—Purchasers of bootleg liquor in Knoxville who are short measured may refer the matter to City Sealer W. C. Fraser with assurance their loss will be prosecuted.

"As I see it," the city sealer said, "selling any amount of liquor doesn't nullify a further offense of short measuring a customer."

DEBATE ON MODERN WOMAN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 21.—Modern woman will be on the defense of a debate between Marquette University co-eds and a team of men from Harvard University here April 9. The subject of the debate, in which the girls will have the negative, will be "Resolved, That the Emancipated Woman is a Curse."

Constantine Bennett, left, American actress and Mabel Normand, right, screen actress, are both reported seriously ill. Miss Bennett, the daughter of Richard Bennett, actor, is in a Paris hospital following an emergency operation for appendicitis. Miss Normand is reported near death from advanced tuberculosis at her Beverly Hills, Calif., home. Her husband, Lew Cody, recovering from a nervous breakdown, has not been informed of his wife's illness.

Norway's Crown Prince Weds Swedish Princess

OSLO, Norway, March 21.—Crown Prince Olaf of Norway and Princess Martha of Sweden were married in the Lutheran Cathedral of Our Saviour shortly after noon here today.

The marriage joined the reigning houses of two kingdoms and—for the first time in approximately twenty-five years—united the Scandinavian peninsula in a common and friendly celebration.

It was the first royal wedding performed in Norway since 1859, and the most elaborate one in Europe since the World War.

The Duke of Vestergotland, brother of the king of Sweden, gave his lovely daughter in marriage to the crown prince. The act was accepted as a sign that relations between Norway and Sweden—gradually strengthened after the separation of the kingdoms in 1905—would be even more secure in the future.

Bishop Lunde read the wedding speech and the Lutheran marriage ritual, assisted by other dignitaries of the church. The Norwegian royal family, and representatives of the royal families of Sweden, Denmark, England and Holland stood near the sanctuary while the marriage was performed.

More than a score of royal guests were present. The wedding day was slightly cloudy and a wind blew during the morning.

Brilliant uniforms and gay dresses, harmonizing with the masses of flowers brightened the stately old cathedral.

Throng of people—urbanites and peasants—massed about the church steps to glimpse their crown prince and crown princess.

Prince Olaf, tall and erect in his lieutenant's uniform, arrived at the cathedral with his cousin and best man, the Duke of York, shortly before noon.

Princess Martha arrived with her father at high noon and was greeted at the door by a group of clergymen. Her gown was of silver, and a white veil fell from her dark, bobbed hair. The eight bridesmaids—four from Sweden and four from Norway—wore dresses of light blue.

As the bride and her party walked slowly down the aisle, ninety-seven Norwegian students sang Wilhelm Stenhammar's "Sweden."

"The best home on earth is a home built on God and love," Bishop Lunde said in his sermon. "To this we bless the crown prince of Norway and the princess of Sweden."

The bishop finished, and Olaf and Martha rose and walked to the altar before him. At the same time, the congregation rose and stood while the ritual was read.

"I ask you, Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, before the face of God and in the presence of this assembly, if you take Princess Martha to be your wife?" the bishop asked.

"I do," the prince answered.

Martha answered a similar question and the couple knelt while the bishop read passages of scripture, said the Lord's prayer, and bestowed God's blessing on them as man and wife.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE LAWYER OUSTED BY HEADQUARTERS BODY

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—The breach which split forces of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League during the last gubernatorial campaign, broke out in open warfare today as Charles M. Earhart, the league attorney, prepared to step from office.

It was understood officially that Dr. E. J. Moore, league superintendent, has advised the headquarters committee that he can no longer work with Earhart and that the attorney must resign or face ouster.

Earhart will resign. A formal announcement said the attorney "was leaving for economic reasons," the statement explaining "that only a few states kept a special full-time attorney on their staffs."

Earhart a few days ago aroused the ire of Dr. Moore by pointing out what he believed to be faults in the proposed state constabulary bill, now before the general assembly.

Moore denounced the lawyer as did the American issue, the league's official newspaper, of which Freeman L. Dustman is editor.

Dustman and Dr. Moore leaped into the public prints during the gubernatorial campaign when they assailed Congressman James H. Bege, of Sandusky, a Republican candidate for governor.

Earhart, it was said, has been at odds with Dustman and Moore since that time.

GAS TAX INCREASE STILL IN COMMITTEE

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—The Sullivan bill to increase the state gasoline tax, was still in committee today with prospects it would not be reported out for some time.

Rep. Dallas Sullivan, author of the measure, believes the state needs a seven cent gasoline tax although his bill would increase the present tax only one cent to four cents.

"We need a seven cent tax if the motorist is to pay all the cost of the roads," Sullivan declared. "but we can't get seven cents because that would be unloading 'a little too fast.'"

The object of the bill is to compel the large cities to bear the burden of road construction, the revenue to be derived from increases in the gasoline tax.

Sullivan and the rural bloc have led a determined fight for the bill but opposition from the city delegates has been unexpectedly strong.

MANY IMMIGRANTS SEEKING COLONIES ARE AMONG VICTIMS

Fire Adds Horror When Passenger Trains
Collide

TORONTO, Ont., March 21.—Canada's worst train wreck in nearly twenty years was under investigation today as officials sought the cause of a head-on collision which took the lives of at least nineteen persons, many of them colonists setting out with high hopes for a new career in the west.

Six cars and an engine were hurled from the track as two crack passenger trains, running between Toronto and Winnipeg, crashed in the darkness early yesterday. The first stages of the investigation indicated that one of the engineers had run past an ordered stop at Dorcourt, near Parry Sound in the Georgian Bay country.

The dead included: H. Barstead, conductor of westbound train; George Miller, news agent; Horace Smith, fireman of the eastbound train; W. G. White, brakeman; Roy Ferguson, brakeman; and L. V. Savage, brakeman.

The others killed were mostly among the immigrants, traveling in a colonist car immediately behind the engine of the westbound train.

A dozen or more were killed outright or pinned in the wreckage and burned to death. The car was of steel but lined with wood because of climatic conditions.

A coal stove, about which the colonists warmed themselves or prepared their meals, overturned and started the fire.

One of the passengers from the eastbound train said that he believed only six of the occupants of the colonist car escaped with their lives. Identification of the dead will be difficult because the colonists were recruited from all parts of the world.

Heart-trending stories of the disaster, the worst in Canada since sixty-four persons were killed in a wreck near Sault Ste. Marie in 1910, were told by those who escaped.

"One woman kept screaming until she was burned to death," said J. E. Harcourt. "I saw several skulls and human bones burning."

Several children were believed among the dead.

ANNE TO BE JUNE BRIDE

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—Miss Anne Morrow and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be married some time in June, it was said in official circles here today.

Lindbergh is expected to make one or two flights to Mexico City before June, in order, it is said, to fix the exact date and place of the ceremony. Meanwhile Miss Morrow's trousseau is being prepared and it is understood it will be ready by the end of May.

Friends of the couple believe that the colonel and his future wife favor Mexico, probably Cuernavaca, as a wedding place in preference to the United States. The Morrow home is at Cuernavaca.

The missionary said 100 persons were believed killed.

Several American missions were burned but all the missionaries escaped, the telegram said.

ASSEMBLY MAY END ITS SESSION SOON

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—Prospects that the eighty-eighth general assembly will have completed its work by the middle of April appeared brighter today as the general appropriations bill nears completion.

"We hope to have the bill completed and ready for introduction next Monday," said Senator G. M. Kummer of Preble county, chairman of the senate finance committee.

"We are about through with our work and the house should be enabled to vote on the measure late next week."

The length of past legislative sessions has been governed largely by the date of presentation of the appropriations bills.

SLAYS FORMER WIFE WITH PISTOL; ENDS LIFE UNDER TRAIN

Children Watch As Step-
Father Shoots Their Mother

CLEVELAND, O., March 21.—Bodies of John DeBeute, 34, and his wife Mary, 35, who had divorced him a week ago, lay together in the county morgue today.

Mrs. DeBeute was dead from bullets fired by her ex-husband, according to police. DeBeute was killed by a New York Central train.

From four daughters of the dead woman, police learned the story of her death. They were sitting with her in the kitchen of their home when DeBeute, who had been living apart from them, came in.

DeBeute was the stepfather of the girls. He had been drinking they said. He and his former wife got into an argument. He threatened Mrs. DeBeute's life. The two older girls, Jennie, 14, and Rose, 13, ran out to call police.

Shortly after they left, DeBeute pulled a gun from his pocket and opened fire on Mrs. DeBeute, the younger girls, Mary, 7, and Julia, 11, told police. The mother fell with bullets through her head and chest.

Then DeBeute turned the gun on himself, according to the two girls and Anton Cerne, who was visiting the elder girl, Jennie.

DeBeute's hat "sort of raised" as he fired the gun, but he appeared unhurt.

Police arrived and rushed Mrs. DeBeute to Lakeside hospital. She was dead on arrival. An hour later DeBeute's body was found on the railroad tracks, three-quarters of a mile from his wife's home.

COMMUNIST REVOLT STARTED IN CHINA

PAPING, China, May 21.—The American legation here received a telegram from an American missionary today advising that a great communist uprising had occurred in the southern part of Kiangsi province.

The missionary said 100 persons were believed killed.

Several American missions were burned but all the missionaries escaped, the telegram said.

IN THIS CORNER, K. O. BENDER

Scrappy State Senator Fights With Fists As Well
As With Tongue.

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—Insofar as State Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland is concerned, the senate can dismiss the sergeant-at-arms.

The senator demonstrated his "strong-arm" powers late yesterday when he pushed, propelled, shoved, dragged and otherwise ushered a would-be lobbyist from the senate chamber.

The self-styled lobbyist had objected to the senate labor committee's method of considering a bill placing stringent regulations on employment agencies and insinuated the committee was "crooked."

Senator Bender arose to a point of special privilege and the "ushering" process began.

FOCH FUNERAL WILL BE TUESDAY; NATION PREPARES TRIBUTE

National Mourning
Planned; Burial In
The Invalides

PARIS, March 21.—The body of Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, victor over everything but death, lay in state today not far from the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown poilu.

Clad in the dark blue uniform of his country and decorated with the bright ribbons of her highest honors, the "little warrior" slept quietly at last behind the shuttered windows of his home on Rue de Grenelles.

France knelt—on the first day of spring—before the bier of the mild-mannered military genius, who claimed, in death, the redoubled esteem and adoration of the nation which had honored him as victor and savior. Statesmen, peasants and veterans of the world's great war here joined by ambassadors of many nations in humble tribute to France's hero.

Heir to the military glory of Napoleon and of Ney, the supreme commander of the allied war-time armies probably will lie for a day with the most humble of his men beneath the broad curve of the Arc de Triomphe.

Premier Poincare announced, after a conference of the cabinet and General Weygand, who represented Madame Foch, that the Marshal's funeral would be Tuesday. Burial will be in the Invalides, the premier said.

Preparations were made to receive the body in a crypt at the Invalides between the tombs of Rouget de Lisle, author of the French national anthem, and Marshal Foyatle, not far from the tomb of Napoleon.

There will be a day of national mourning in honor of the man who turned back invading armies from Paris more than a decade ago. Many business places will be closed to permit the poorest of the men who served under Foch to attend the funeral. Special arrangements are being made to permit the crippled war veterans, particularly those unable to walk, to pay a last tribute to the great soldier.

Against the gorgeous artificial background of pomp and ceremony, there stood out today the deep and simple grief of a common people for one of their most beloved heroes. Along the Rue de Grenelles trudged the laborer, the soldier and the housewife to be near, for a moment, the death chamber at No. 35.

There was no display nor ceremony among these pilgrims but only an unusual quietness which hid a sincere sorrow, for the little man who died when he wanted "oh, so much" to walk again in the bright sun outside the shuttered windows.

There was satisfaction, too, in the hearts of the men who had come back from the mud of trenches in Flanders that "Le Marechal" had uttered, even with his last breath, the cry of the poilu: "Allons!" (let's go.)

It was with the shout "allons!" that the poilu leaped from the trenches in the World War and it was with that same phrase that Foch replied to his attendant when the patient was told that it was time for him to return to bed, a moment before death came to him at dusk last night.

The government placed before the chamber of deputies, this morning a bill providing for the expenses of a national funeral for Foch.

Minister of Interior Andre Tardieu pointed out that the services would be the sixth accorded in the last fifty years.

In addition to tentative plans for placing the body beneath the Arc de Triomphe and for interment in the Invalides, beside the body of Napoleon, it was planned to hold religious services in Notre Dame Cathedral.

Gen. John J. Pershing, who had planned to go to the Riviera to complete his recovery from an attack of influenza, will remain in Paris to attend the funeral.

REPORT FIFTY DEAD; RESCUE WORK RUSHED TO SAVE TRAPPED MEN

Sparks From Conveyor Belt Explode Gas Pocket, Is Belief; Day Shift Had Just Started; Group
Of Fifty Escape Shaft.

PARNASSUS, Pa., March 21.—More than 300 men were entombed in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Co., here today by a terrific explosion which wrecked the workings, officials of the company announced.

The explosion occurred at 7:20 a. m., a few minutes after the day men had gone into the mine. The night crew had left the workings at 7 a. m.

First reports to the United States Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh said at least fifty men were killed, but this report could not be verified due to the excitement at the mines and the absence of an accurate check on the men at work.

Rescue crews of the Valley Camp Coal Co., and adjoining mine companies were rushed to the scene.

A mine rescue car operated by the United States Bureau of Mines was brought here from Curtsville, a few miles away, where it had been held on a siding.

Houses within a radius of two miles were rocked by the explosion. Witnesses said a shaft of white hot flames shot 200 feet in the air from the mine shaft. It was feared that many of the miners may have been caught in the flames and burned to death.

The force of the blast is believed to have wrecked much of the temporary and permanent bracing work in the mine and cave-ins may add to the difficulties of the rescue work. Mine officials said that the explosion was caused by sparks from a conveyor belt as its steel rasps slide about a pulley at the foot of the shaft.

The sparks, the mine official said, probably found a gas pocket and the explosion followed.

A fan house 200 yards from the main tipple was blown to bits and its framework burned by the flames which belched from the mine shaft.

Two entries from the mine located at points five miles away from the main entrance may afford an opportunity for some of the men to escape, rescue crews believed.

Relief agencies were rushing to these openings to aid any of the men who may find their way to safety.

One rescue crew succeeded in entering the workings for a short distance an hour after the explosion, but rescuers were unable to determine the extent of the blast. They were unable to reach the point where the victims are thought to have been located at the time of the blast.

Some fans were reported to have remained in operation despite the violence of the explosion. These fans may furnish sufficient air to sustain life until rescuers can reach the entombed men.

A few men have been removed from the shaft of the mine, but no accurate check of the dead could be made.

A long line of automobiles were waiting at the mouth of the mine to take the injured to hospitals at New Kensington and nearby towns. All available doctors and nurses in

GENERAL AGUIRRE, REBEL LEADER, IS SENTENCED TO DIE

Inspirer Of Revolt Taken
By Federal Troops
At Vera Cruz

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—Mexican federal troops were interlocking themselves today for the defense of Mazatlan, Sinaloa, west coast seaport town, in anticipation of rebel attack.

General Jaime Carrillo, in command of the federal forces at Mazatlan, reported that rebel troops had been sighted in the vicinity apparently preparing to attack.

Government officials were awaiting expected reports of the execution of General Jesus M. Aguirre, one of the inspirers and leaders of the current rebellion, who was captured by federal troops yesterday and court martialed last evening. His execution was scheduled for today.

Great satisfaction was expressed by the government when the report of the capture was made by General Manuel M. Acosta. Aguirre was taken at Agua Caliente, Vera Cruz, by troops of General Eldorado Hernandez, to whose headquarters he was taken for court martial.

Jesus Aguirre is the brother of Simon Aguirre, who was executed in the first week of the revolt for his part in the rebellion in the state of Vera Cruz.

General Acosta telegraphed the news of the capture to President Emilio Portes Gil. In accordance with instructions from the president, photographs of the rebel general were to be made before and after the execution. His capture followed a battle in the vicinity of Agua Caliente, in which two rebel generals, Miguel Aleman and Bridgo Escobar, were killed. Escobar was not related to the leader of the northern rebel troops, J. Gonzales Escobar.

FOCH FUNERAL WILL BE TUESDAY; NATION PREPARES TRIBUTE

National Mourning
Planned; Burial In
The Invalides

PARIS, March 21.—The body of Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, victor over everything but death, lay in state today not far from the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown poilu.

Clad in the dark blue uniform of his country and decorated with the bright ribbons of her highest honors, the "little warrior" slept quietly at last behind the shuttered windows of his home on Rue de Grenelles.

France knelt—on the first day of spring—before the bier of the mild-mannered military genius, who claimed, in death, the redoubled esteem and adoration of the nation which had honored him as victor and savior. Statesmen, peasants and veterans of the world's great war here joined by ambassadors of many nations in humble tribute to France's hero.

Heir to the military glory of Napoleon and of Ney, the supreme commander of the allied war-time armies probably will lie for a day with the most humble of his men beneath the broad curve of the Arc de Triomphe.

Premier Poincare announced, after a conference of the cabinet and General Weygand, who represented Madame Foch, that the Marshal's funeral would be Tuesday. Burial will be in the Invalides, the premier said.

Preparations were made to re-locate the body in a crypt at the Invalides between the tombs of Rouget de Lisle, author of the French national anthem, and Marshal Foyatle, not far from the tomb of Napoleon.

There will be a day of national mourning in honor of the man who turned back invading armies from Paris more than a decade ago.

Business places will be closed to permit the poorest of the men who served under Foch to attend the funeral. Special arrangements are being made to permit the crippled war veterans, particularly those unable to walk, to pay a last tribute to the great soldier.

Against the gorgeous artificial background of pomp and ceremony, there stood out today the deep and simple grief of a common people for one of their most beloved heroes. Along the Rue de Grenelles trudged the laborer, the soldier and the housewife to be near, for a moment, the death chamber at No. 38.

There was no display nor ceremony among these pilgrims but only an unusual quietness which hid a sincere sorrow, for the little man who died when he wanted "oh, so much" to walk again in the bright sun outside the shuttered windows.

There was satisfaction, too, in the hearts of the men who had come back from the mud of trenches in Flanders that "le Marechal" had uttered with his last breath, the cry of the poilu: "Allons y! (let's go)!"

It was with the shout "allons y!" that the poilu leaped from the trenches in the World War and it was with that same phrase that Foch replied to his attendant that it was time for him to return to bed, a moment before death came to him at dusk last night.

The government placed before the chamber of deputies, this morning a bill providing for the expenses of a national funeral for Foch.

Minister of Interior Andre Tardieu pointed out that the services would be the sixth accorded in the last fifty years.

In addition to tentative plans for placing the body beneath the Arc de Triomphe and for interment in the Invalides, beside the body of Napoleon, it was planned to hold religious services in Notre Dame Cathedral.

Gen. John J. Pershing, who had planned to go to the Riviera to complete his recovery from an attack of influenza, will remain in Paris to attend the funeral.

The self-styled lobbyist had objected to the senate labor committee's method of considering a bill placing stringent regulations on employment agencies and insinuated the committee was "crooked."

Senator Bender arose to a point of special privilege and the "ushering" process began. On reaching the exterior of the senate chamber with the "lobbyist," the senator further offered to fight.

The man recanted, however, and Bender returned to the chamber, later explaining why he "led" the lobbyist to the outside.

"Bender may say he was leading the lobbyist," one said, "but it looked to me like he had him by the scruff of the neck."

Senator Harold Hughes of Zanesville commented that "when Bender is throwing someone out you want to get out of the way." He added that he almost got run down.

Sparks From Conveyor Belt Explode Gas Pocket, Is Belief; Day Shift Had Just Started; Group Of Fifty Escape Shaft.

PARNASSUS, Pa., March 21.—More than 300 men were entombed in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Co., here today by a terrific explosion which wrecked the workings, officials of the company announced.

The explosion occurred at 7:20 a. m., a few minutes after the day men had gone into the mine. The night crew had left the workings at 7 a. m.

First reports to the United States Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh said at least fifty men were killed, but this report could not be verified due to the excitement at the mines and the absence of an accurate check on the men at work.

Rescue crews of the Valley Camp Coal Co., and adjoining mine companies were rushed to the scene.

A mine rescue car operated by the United States Bureau of Mines was brought here from Cutsville, a few miles away, where it had been held on a siding.

Houses within a radius of two miles were rocked by the explosion. Witnesses said a shaft of white hot flames shot 200 feet in the air from the mine shaft. It was feared that many of the miners may have been caught in the flames and burned to death.

The force of the blast is believed to have wrecked much of the temporary and permanent bracing work in the mine and caves may add to the difficulties of the rescue work. Mine officials said that the explosion was caused by sparks from a conveyor belt as its steel rasps slide about a pulley at the foot of the shaft.

The sparks, the mine official said, probably found a gas pocket and the explosion followed.

A fan house 200 yards from the main tippie was blown to bits and its framework burned by the flames which belched from the mine shaft.

Two entries from the mine located at points five miles away from the main entrance may afford an opportunity for some of the men to escape, rescue crews believed.

Relief agencies were rushing to these openings to aid any of the men who may find their way to safety.

One rescue crew succeeded in entering the workings for a short distance an hour after the explosion, but rescuers were unable to determine the extent of the blast. They were unable to reach the point where the victims were thought to have been located at the time of the blast.

Some fans were reported to have remained in operation despite the violence of the explosion. These fans may furnish sufficient air to sustain life until rescuers can reach the entombed men.

A few men have been removed from the shaft of the mine, but no accurate check of the dead could be made.

A long line of automobiles were waiting at the mouth of the mine to take the injured to hospitals at New Kensington and nearby towns. All available doctors and nurses in

CHIROPRACTORS TO TAKE LICENSE BILL MEASURE TO PEOPLE

Proposal Defeated In Legislature After Debate

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—The initiative bill to provide a separate state board to examine and license chiropractors, defeated late yesterday by the legislature, will be approved to the voters for their approval or rejection at the November election, according to an announcement today by advocates of the bill.

Work of obtaining the necessary additional signatures to place the measure on the ballot for referendum was started at once, according to Rep. W. A. Bellinger and Rep. V. A. McClellan, both of Akron, who led the legislative fight for the bill.

The bill was defeated when it received only twenty-eight votes. The defeat followed a debate that lasted two hours.

The most telling speech against the bill was that by Rep. J. J. Hoover, of Canton, who said that two years ago he had voted in favor of a similar measure.

"The bill defeated two years ago was afterwards submitted to the people at a referendum," he said. "It was voted down by a majority. I am one of the representatives of the people, who defeated this bill."

"This measure is the only proposition before the legislature on which I am absolutely sure how the people stand."

The house also voted down the bill by Senator Joseph Ackerman, Cleveland, which would have given universities and colleges the right to secure by condemnation proceedings property owned by private cities and needed for development of the institutions.

A bill by Rep. J. H. Schweller, Putnam County to permit veterans of the World War and the sons or daughters of war veterans to be appointed members of county soldiers' relief commissions was approved in the house by a vote of 104 to 2.

The joint resolution of Rep. Elmer E. Boden, Akron, for appointment of a joint legislative committee to investigate the advisability of purchasing the Anna Dean farm, in Summit County near Barboursburg, was approved for consideration this afternoon.

The senate concurred with the house in passing a bill by Rep. Earle Johnson of Lake County to authorize county commissioners to issue bonds to build bridges.

It passed and sent to the house the bill by Senator L. L. Marshall of Cleveland to reconstitute the general corporation laws. This is one of the measures backed by the Ohio State Bar Association.

Also concurring with the house the senate passed the bill by Rep. Lester Able of Cleveland to permit insurance companies to write policies covering almost any sort of hazard.

The senate then sent to the house for concurrence the bill by Senator Davis Johnson of Fulton County to raise the maximum compensation for cattle killed to prevent bovine tuberculosis, from $25 for grade animals to $35 and from $40 to $70 for purebreds.

MUST REMOVE RAILS.
MONTPELIER, Vt., March 21.—A 321-foot stretch of the rail bed of the Barre and Chelsea line will be moved so access may be gained to granite deposits beneath the tracks.

GENERAL AGUIRRE,
REBEL LEADER, IS SENTENCED TO DIE

Inspirer Of Revolt Taken
By Federal Troops
At Vera Cruz

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—Mexican federal troops were internecine themselves today for the defense of Mazatlan, Sinaloa, west coast seaport town, in anticipation of rebel attack.

General Jaime Carrillo, in command of the federal forces at Mazatlan, reported that rebel troops had been sighted in the vicinity apparently preparing to attack.

Government officials were awaiting reports of the execution of General Jesus M. Aguirre, one of the inspirers and leaders of the current rebellion, who was captured by federal troops yesterday and court martialed last evening. His execution was scheduled for today.

Great satisfaction was expressed by the government when the report of the capture was made by General Manuel M. Acosta. Aguirre was taken at Agua Caliente, Vera Cruz, by troops of General Eldorado Hernandez, to whose headquarters he was taken for court martial.

Jesus Aguirre is the brother of Simon Aguirre, who was executed in the first week of the revolt for his part in the rebellion in the state of Vera Cruz.

General Acosta telegraphed the news of the capture to President Emilio Portes Gil in accordance with instructions from the president, photographs of the rebel general were to be made before and after the execution. His capture followed a battle in the vicinity of Agua Caliente, in which two rebel generals, Miguel Aleman and Bridgo Escobar, were killed. Escobar was not related to the leader of the northern rebel troops, J. Gonzales Escobar.

COMMITTEE PLANS
RE-DECORATION

Proposed re-decoration of the main corridor, second floor and Common Pleas Court room of the Court House was again discussed at a meeting Wednesday of the committee appointed for that purpose but it was decided to continue an investigation into the character of the work and hold another meeting next Wednesday.

It has been decided, however, that the work will be done in oil and that all mural paintings will be maintained and brightened up. The committee consists of Mrs. P. H. Flynn, Probate Judge S. C. Wright, Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy, Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam, Sheriff Ohmer Tate and County Commissioners.

COMMITTEE FAVORS
WILLIAMSON BILL

A bill sponsored by Representative R. D. Williamson, Greene County, providing for increases in the allowance made to farmers for cattle slaughtered in tuberculosis tests was recommended for passage Tuesday by the house agricultural committee.

Increases from $25 to $35 for grade cattle, and $50 to $70 for pure bred cattle are provided for in the measure. As the federal government matches the state allowance for slaughtered cattle, passage of the bill will make the farmers' allowance $70 on grade cattle and $140 on pure-bred.

EIGHTEEN EXPERTS

keep endless vigil

SOHIO quality the product of most modern methods and constant human care

EVERY HOUR of the day and night refining experts are on watch at the two great refining units producing Sohio, guarding Sohio's high quality. Each man in the group pictured above (workers in our Cleveland refinery) is an expert in his own particular field, trained through long years in our own plants. Eleven years is the average length of service of these men.

The extensive equipment erected last year to manufacture Sohio high-test Ethyl Gasoline is the most modern in the petroleum industry. Science has contributed her most delicate instruments to keep constant check on Sohio's unusually high specifications.

In spite of this modern equipment and these extra refining processes, Sohio's uniform high quality is largely dependent on the human care given its manufacture. Millions of gallons of Sohio sold during the first six months of its manufacture prove that the guardians of Sohio quality have kept their trust. The 24 hour vigil of these experts is your assurance of Sohio's continued purity.

Try Sohio in your car—today. Test it any way you wish. Find out for yourself what Sohio's extra purity means to your car's performance. You'll know, then, that there IS a difference in gasoline! For sale at Red-White-and-Blue Standard Service Stations and dealers' pumps everywhere in Ohio.

Popularity... begins with a
Clear Skin

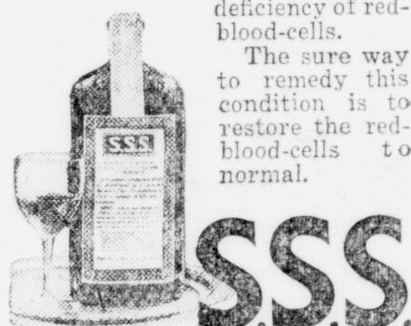

IT'S the person with a clear, smooth, lovely complexion that usually wins.

To be sure, not much is said openly about skin eruptions, but secretly they influence many important affairs. Personal likes and dislikes are quickly formed.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. A clear skin makes everyone more attractive.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of those unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood makes the body strong and resistant to disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders or if the count of your red-blood-cells is low, take a few bottles of S.S.S. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy, which is made from fresh vegetable drugs, and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

POPULARITY

By Laird

What constitutes popularity? Why is it that one girl will be surrounded by men and another will always be a wallflower? What can a girl do to gain popularity?

These be questions that have harried and harrowed women's minds in all generations. Barry, the novelist, says it is "charm" that counts—and without it women cannot attract, no matter what else they have—beauty, brains, etc. Elinor Glyn calls that intangible something "It."

But cheer up, girls. You may not be the personification of this mysterious something that causes crowds of male moths to flit about you, but seldom are you friendless. It is usually true that every Jill has her Jack, even if she does not acknowledge him to be such, and few, indeed, thank goodness, are utterly friendless. And if you be one of the very few who are, find another in the same circumstance and be a friend to him or her.

LADIES AID SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The Ladies Aid Society of the First United Presbyterian Church held an all day meeting at the church, Wednesday, at which time the Women's Bible class finished a comfort which it had been making.

At 11:30 a lovely covered dish luncheon was served. Following the luncheon a short business meeting followed the program and election of officers was held. Those elected were: Mrs. George Wheeler, president, Mrs. Elbert Andrews, vice president, Mrs. Raymond Cherry, secretary, and Mrs. Elmer Waddle, treasurer.

Miss Mabel Wheeler gave several piano selections. A short business meeting followed the program and election of officers was held. Those elected were: Mrs. George Wheeler, president, Mrs. Elbert Andrews, vice president, Mrs. Raymond Cherry, secretary, and Mrs. Elmer Waddle, treasurer.

XENIANS ATTEND GARDEN CLUB MEET.

One of the most interesting meetings of the Dayton Garden Club was the one-day garden school Wednesday at the Engineer's Club, Dayton under the auspices of the Dayton Club, in co-operation with the extension department of Ohio State University.

The day's sessions were well attended and about seventy guests attended the noon luncheon which was arranged in the Spanish dining room of the club. A splendid program was arranged for both morning and afternoon sessions.

Among Xenia guests present were: Mrs. Charles Kelbie, Mrs. R. R. McClellan, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. James Watt, Mrs. John Bocklet, Mrs. Rose Shaffer, Mrs. Louise Shaffer, Mrs. J. W. Santmyer and Miss Helen Santmyer.

CLUB PLANS DANCE

The Downtown Country Club will sponsor a dance Friday night, April 5. It was decided at the bi-monthly dinner meeting of the club, held at the Iron Lantern Wednesday night. A committee to make arrangements for the affair was appointed. The organization also discussed further plans in connection with organization of a softball team.

Plans are now complete for the Spider Web Social to be held at the Spring Hill grade school, Friday evening at 7 o'clock. An interesting program has been arranged and sandwiches, ice-cream and candy will be on sale. The public is invited. There will be no admission fee.

The choir of the First Reformed Church will give a program of Easter music Sunday evening at 7:30. The choir will be assisted by Miss Margaret Steele at the piano, Mrs. Louis Hammerle, violin, and Miss Lois Street, cello. An interesting program is being planned.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church will meet in the choir rooms of the church Friday at 10 a. m. for an all day sewing of table linen. Women attending will please bring a box lunch.

The First United Presbyterian Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Edwin Galloway, N. Galloway St., Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, instead of at the church as previously announced. The executive board will meet at 1:45.

Mrs. Ralph Hall, E. Church St., has returned home after a few days visit with relatives in Green Springs.

Heads Yaqui Rebels

Beloved by his men and noted for his rigid discipline, General Ramon Yucupicio, above, commands the garrison of 400 Yaqui Indians, famous for their fighting qualities, in the defense of Agua Prieta, Mexico. The Yaqui Indians have joined forces with the rebels under General Escobar.

Mrs. Fred Snyder, Chestnut St., entertained the "500" club of the Night Owls with three tables of bridge Wednesday evening. Mrs. Stephen Bean and Mr. Orville Bogart won the high score prizes. A lovely refreshment course was served following the game.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Parrett, W. Third St., are entertaining the Cooking Club with a dinner at their home, Friday evening.

Mrs. Russell Bowers and daughter, Florence, Jamestown, are spending a few days here with her sister, Mrs. George Wheeler.

Mrs. George Street, E. Third St., who has been seriously ill at her home since Sunday is slowly improving.

Mrs. M. W. Monroe, E. Market St., is confined to her home because of illness.

Mr. H. E. Schmidt, N. King St., who underwent an operation at the McClellan Hospital about six weeks ago, returned to his home, accompanied by his nurse, last Monday, and is reported to be doing very well.

Mrs. Charles Gorham, S. Mechanic St., left last Thursday for Cleveland to spend ten days with her sister, Mrs. Mary Frailek, who is seriously ill.

Mr. Stephen Wilson, S. Detroit St., is convalescing from an operation which he underwent last week at the McClellan Hospital.

The Pride of Xenia, W. and M. Club is sponsoring a 50-50 dance and card party, Thursday evening at 8:30, at the Junior Order Hall. There will be good music and everyone is invited to attend.

Mrs. Yeola Edler, secretary of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, is making an appeal for furniture, dishes, clothing, bed clothing and other household furnishings to assist a family that lost all household goods in a recent fire. People with such material to donate should get in touch with Mrs. Edler at the Red Cross offices.

The Episcopal Church choir will meet at the home of Mr. Watkins Frame, W. Market St., Thursday evening for the practice of Palm Sunday and Easter music.

Among relatives attending the funeral services for Mrs. Arthur Squires here Wednesday were Mrs. H. H. Warner, Hamilton, sister of Mr. Squires and Mrs. Stella Ferguson and Mrs. Dulcie Long, Lima, cousins of Mr. Squires. Burial was made in Woodland Cemetery.

Trinity M. E. Church Choir will meet for rehearsal on Friday evening at 7 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

AUDITOR SPEAKS ON PROPOSED BILLS

County Auditor R. O. Wead discussed the proposed four-cent gasoline tax and the rural police bill now pending in the state legislature in an address before a meeting of the Greene County Association of Township Trustees and Clerks at Jamestown Tuesday night.

Auditor Wead commended the organization on its work, declaring that it could wield a powerful and good influence. He also touched briefly on the fact he has always been strongly opposed to centralized power.

Following the meeting members of the association and their wives enjoyed supper in the K. of P. Hall.

POPULARITY

What constitutes popularity? Why is it that one girl will be surrounded by men and another will always be a wallflower? What can a girl do to gain popularity?

These are questions that have harried and harrowed women's minds in all generations. Barry, the novelist, says it is "charm" that counts—and without it women cannot attract, no matter what else they have—beauty, brains, etc. Elmer Glyn calls that intangible something "It."

But cheer up, girls. You may not be the personification of this mysterious something that causes crowds of male moths to flit about you, but seldom are you friendless. It is usually true that every girl has her Jack, even if she does not acknowledge him to be such, and few, indeed, thank goodness, are utterly friendless. And if you be one of the very few who are, find another in the same circumstance and be a friend to him or her.

IN FAMILIAR ROLE IN GUILD PLAY

HARRY D. SMITH

Attorney Harry D. Smith has been assigned a familiar role in the Xenia Little Theater Guild production, "To the Ladies," a comedy in three acts to be presented as the second Guild offering of the current season at City Hall Theater Friday night.

He will act as toastmaster and Xenians who have patronized old-fashioned minstrel shows here in past years will remember him in the capacity of an interlocutor, for which he has proven himself ideal.

The Friday night Guild play will be a closed performance for members only but anyone desiring to witness this and the two succeeding season tickets which are on sale at Jones' drug store.

Miss Helen Hurley has the leading feminine role in "To the Ladies" while John Wood will play opposite her. The play is under the direction of Miss Esther Muriel Smith, local dramatic arts teacher, who took the leading part in the recent Guild show, "Craig's Wife."

KLAN SENDS ATTACK ON SENATOR BENDER

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—Letters censuring members of the state senate for failing to pass the Clark anti-alien employment bill, were sent over the state today by headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan.

The letters, signed by K. A. Cole-scott, grand dragon, particularly denounced State Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland who spoke against the bill and urged the senate to "throw off the shackles of Klan domination."

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

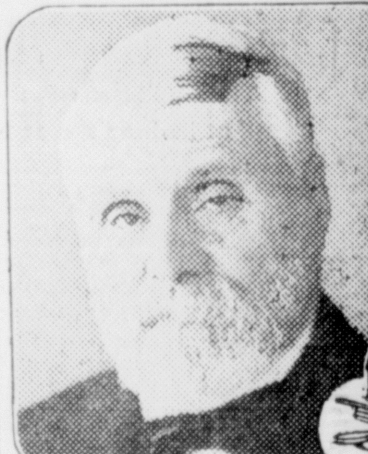

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE VALUE OF EARLY DISCIPLINE.—It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.—Lamentations 3:27.

NOT A HERO AFTER ALL

The commission appointed by Signor Mussolini to investigate the loss of the airship on May 25, 1928, finds that the disaster, which cost the lives of eight of the crew and nine rescuers, was caused by "a wrong maneuver." The responsibility for this error is placed by the commission squarely on General Umberto Nobile, who commanded the expedition in which the Italia came to its tragic end on an Arctic ice floe. After the accident, General Nobile allowed himself and his pet dog to be rescued by a Swedish aviator, while a companion with a broken leg and the rest of the crew were left to their fate. The commission can find no justification for this ungallant act by the Italia's commander.

The Italian people loudly resented the bitter judgment passed by the foreign press on General Nobile at the time. They had just been elated by the news that he had dropped their flag on the north pole; and naturally it was hard for them to regard him in any other light than that of a national hero.

They seemed to feel, too, that this criticism of an individual reflected on their race. As long as it came from other countries they could set it down to jealousy; but they cannot similarly dispose of the findings of a fascistically created commission of their own countrymen, which has taken ample time to get all the facts.

The report of this commission confirms the early judgment passed upon the Italia's commander by the extra-Italian world. General Nobile stands today doubly convicted of having been, as far as his conduct of the dirigible is concerned, a poor navigator and a worse sport.

The circumstances that caused him to forget that his first duty was to look to the welfare of his subordinates could not have been more unnerving than those which Captain Scott faced with a fortitude and self-effacement that has immortalized his name. General Nobile lacked the essential qualities of an Arctic explorer. This brought disgrace upon his own name and record; but it in no wise reflected upon the collective character of his chivalrous race.

HEAT AND HOT AIR

In summoning congress to meet in special session, beginning April 15, President Hoover asks the body to "consider further agricultural relief and legislation for limited changes" in the tariff. While this definition of what he desires the national legislature to take up is an explanation of the call, it does not in the least limit the action of the body. Congress could not have assembled until December without a summons from Mr. Hoover, but once it has started operations, it is perfectly free to remain in Washington as long as it pleases and consider and pass any legislation that appeals to it. It has the power to keep on going until the time for the regular session arrives and if Washington were pleasant in summer, it might possibly do so. The deadly climate of the capital city during the "heated term" is the thing which saves the nation from such an affliction.

Your BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell And Mine

NEW YORK.—You might have observed the report recently that R. R. Reilly created the new paper milk bottle not used by a big firm. Mr. Reilly, so the story goes, worked on the idea for many years, threatening to do away with the regular milk bottles because at one time his slumbers were disturbed by irritable neighbors who hurled them at his door. It appears that Mr. Reilly once had the toothache for a week. Various pain relievers failed him, and just when he felt into unconsciousness from sheer exhaustion someone would arouse him by chugging a milk bottle to shoo the cats. It was then that he determined some day there would be nothing but paper milk bottles. He was a poor man when he started working on the plan and today he is rich.

He is plotting another revelation, and the company he heads is taking little chance of losing his valuable co-operation, having insured him a week ago for a paltry $500,000.

IMAGINE! Perhaps you've seen her at the Capitol theatre, or on the Ziegfeld roof. Her name is Charlotte Ayres, and she heads a foursome of expert adagios. The act is more sensational than any we've seen, and the hair-raising routines entice "Bravos!" and wild applause. They toss her from one end of the stage to the other, swing her by one hand as they would a lasso, and leave you gasping by using her as a skipping rope, among other things.

On the Sabbath, however, for want of excitement and a thrill, she teaches Sunday school!

IN CASE YOU DIDN'T KNOW.—Take it from one of the town's professional dropers, when tenants in the next apartment are engaging in a stiff fight, listening in without being caught and you are the sort who enjoys at it, then place a tumbler (open side) against the wall and press your good ear to the bottom of the glass.

NEWS COMMENT and VIEWS

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE MIND IN ORDER

It is usually a pleasure and also a sanitary and profitable experience to clean up desks, closets, bureau drawers and the like from time to time and to put your things in order. It gives you an orderly feeling and a certain very definite satisfaction from knowing exactly what you have and where it is. It is even more important, from time to time, to clean up the mind and to see that it is in order. That doesn't mean the mind should be dusted off and closed up. The doors should always be kept open for the reception of new ideas, but it helps us to face facts and think straight if we will go over our beliefs and our opinions and our faiths and our prejudices now and then and come to some conclusions as to what we believe and do not believe.

AS TO FAITH

There are men and women who will not believe anything that does not suit itself to their reason. To take that position is to place too high a value on your own limited reason. There are many things undoubtedly true that the reason cannot comprehend.

ANGER

The condition of uncontrolled anger is the condition of the beast. The beast knows no restraints that come from a trained mind or the human spirit at its best. Therefore it is always best if you find you have slipped into anger, not to do anything while in that state that calls for the exercise of judgment. For example, it is never safe to write a letter when angry. In anger we are not normal. We are almost certain to do the wrong thing or say the wrong thing. Animals have anger but they do not have judgment.

FISH AND UMBRELLAS

Jack Warwick, famous paragon, quotes somebody as saying that "a fish has been discovered which can walk overland from one lake to another and live out of water six months at a time." And then Jack says: "I would make a better story to have the fish carry an umbrella." The fact is that for fish to carry umbrellas is not far out of the picture. The writer, on a ship in the Caribbean, saw several Portuguese umbrella fish. Over the back of each fish was a little canopy, which made the creature look strangely as though it were carrying a parasol.

Who's Who and Timely Views

MORE GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY URGED

By GEORGE W. NORRIS
Senator From Nebraska.

(George William Norris was born in Sandusky county, Ohio, July 11, 1861. He worked out for farmers and samplers and attended school during the winters, then taught school before attending Baldwin university, Ohio and Indiana normal schools. He later studied law at Valparaiso university and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He served as prosecuting attorney for three terms. From 1885 to 1902 he was judge of the district court in Nebraska. He served in congress from 1903 to 1913, he was elected senator in that year and is now in his third term which terminates in 1921. He is a Republican.)

I am considering introducing a bill in the next congress with a view to revising the laws governing the appointment of cabinet officers in order to take some of these positions out of the category of political appointments and bring about greater efficiency in handling the government business.

The logical place to start any such program is with the office of the postmaster general. I would like to see him appointed for 10 years. The length of the term might be lengthened or shortened, but the important thing would be to fix the term so that it would not expire with the term of the president who appointed him.

In my opinion, the position of postmaster general is not one that should be affected by the policies which may change with changing administrations.

Further, there is no reason why the senate should be called upon to pass on thousands of postmaster general appointments. The postmaster general should have this power without requiring confirmation of such appointments by the senate.

The plan of long-term cabinet appointments without reference to presidential terms, might well be extended also to the office of the attorney general, and, possibly, to the secretary of interior and the secretary of commerce.

It should not be applied to such an office as that of the secretary of state or to the heads of the departments of war and the navy, however, in my opinion.

The secretary of state has to carry out foreign policies, and that is a function of postmaster general. I would not interfere with that office nor with the heads of the army and the navy.

SPEAKING OF THAT TIRED FEELING

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

A hustle and bustle precedes most weddings—a hurried scramble of shopping for the garments and accessories of the all-important trousseau—and a nervous confusion about the wedding lists, whom to invite to the ceremony, whom to include in the list of announcements only.

One might suppose that the least important point in the whole concern was the happiness of the bride and the tranquility of mind necessary to their happiness. Yet it is in reality most important.

A bride should remember that her lover is marrying, not a trousseau and an impressive wedding array, but a wife. And that her personal loveliness, her mental and physical health and beauty will mean far more to him than any gorgeous collection of clothes, and that they will set off her clothes to their best advantage.

In the days before her wedding she should give her attention to every point of her physical appearance. During her courtship days she probably has taken care of her hair and skin and all the points of her appearance which receive public notice. But now she must consider the small personal conceits which will receive interested attention during her honeymoon.

The bride's hands, especially, will be conspicuous. Her new, sparkling rings will call the attention of interested observers to them. Her husband will regard them proudly often, and the bride herself, will be more than usually aware of their charm or lack of charm, as she regards her wedding ring.

She should massage them nightly with a good nourishing and bleaching cream to whiten and soften them attractively. Rubbing each finger from the tip to the base, as if she were trying on a glove, is the first motion of the secretary of state, whose business is diplomacy. The colonel, himself, refers to it as a "job"—not a "post," a "position" or a "portfolio"—just a plain job in the way he describes it. The new commerce secretary is not a bit affected or ritzy.

Be that as it may, Colonel Lamont holds the same cabinet job that President Hoover himself formerly held.

True, his immediate predecessor was William F. Whiting, to whom President Coolidge gave a commerce portfolio when Mr. Hoover resigned last summer. However, Secretary Whiting made so little impression as hardly to signify.

It is alongside Mr. Hoover that Secretary Lamont must stand comparison. In the nature of things, it is apt to be a strain on him—and not alone because Mr. Hoover was a super-secretary of commerce. Maybe Colonel Lamont will prove to be a super-secretary also, but it is a comparison in which every one's tendency will be to give the "breaks" to Mr. Hoover, on account of his present exalted office.

Another thing, President Hoover reasonably may be expected to be especially finicky about the commerce department after nearly eight years' familiarity with the minutest details of its activities.

It will be the acid test of the last drop of the colonel's diplomacy.

Colonel Lamont evidently realizes all this and is mighty particular to assure everyone that he proposes to do not a lick of unnecessary tinkering with a machine which he found in perfect working order, still under the impetus given to it by the master engineer last—but once—before him.

Be it understood, nobody pays any compliments to Mr. Whiting. The latter appears to have had hopes of holding over into the Hoover administration.

Anyway, during his last few weeks as secretary, he was reported to be planning a department reorganization, which it seems unlikely he would have contemplated if he had considered himself a mere stop-gap. The theory is that this shake-up, had it eventuated, would have created numerous vacancies—perhaps explaining the dearth of tears shed for the officially late Mr. Whiting.

He was very undiplomatic.

The diplomatic Colonel Lamont says not a single thing that will be altered from the way Mr. Hoover left it—except as the old hands quit, and he will do all he can to prevent that.

Walter F. Brown, the department's first assistant secretary, is gone already—to become postmaster general. W. P. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary for aeronautics, wants to quit as soon as possible, to make more money. There are rumors that Dr. Julius Klein will resign as director of foreign and domestic commerce as soon as he gets back from Europe. And the colonel will bring a personal secretary from Chicago.

Otherwise it will remain the old department to the last messenger boy.

Broiled Steak Baked Potatoes
Buttered Onions—Baked
Cabbage Salad Banana Custard
Tea or Coffee Substitute

All but the salad and custard on this menu are cooked in the oven, the steak broiled in the broiler under the burner. If you have no broiler, sear the steak well in a very hot frying pan on top of the stove, then sear, add a little water, cover and finish cooking in the oven. The onions are peeled and also put in the oven with a little water. For the last five minutes or so of cooking add a lump of butter on each onion, salt and pepper and leave in oven until the butter is melted.

Today's Recipes

Banana Custard—Cook together in a double boiler a quart of milk, two eggs, one tablespoon of cornstarch (wet the cornstarch with a little cold water and stir until smooth before adding to the milk), four tablespoons of sugar and a dessert spoonful of vanilla. Cook this for ten minutes, stirring constantly to keep from getting lumpy. Have ready six or seven bananas, wash well, and when the double boiler mixture is cool, pour it over the bananas and serve. Whipped cream sprinkled with chopped nut meats can be added to make it richer.

Answers to Mothers
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

Mrs. A.—The time babies begin to talk is variable, some beginning much earlier than others. If your little boy of two years and three months seems bright in other ways, I would not worry. Some day he will probably burst out with an eloquence which will startle you.

Don't talk baby talk to him. Try to make him ask for things. For instance, if he wants an object and points to it, try to make him name the thing, and if he says it give it to him; if he does not say it, don't give it to him. Try this, anyway, for a while. Have you had his mouth and throat examined? Take him to a physician to see that he is not tongue-tied and has no other physical handicap.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have.

Mrs. M.—The position of the fetus changes after the sixth month, so it occupies all sorts of different positions. It is the last few days of pregnancy that it usually takes the position it will assume when born. The fact that your baby is not in the right position for birth a month ahead should not worry you.

Reducing During Pregnancy
"I am 75 pounds overweight and am nursing a three-month-old baby. During my pregnancy my kidneys were affected and I had albumen in the urine, but it is negative now. Will it be advisable for me to begin to reduce while nursing a baby?"

"MRS. J."
Yes, you can reduce with benefit during nursing or pregnancy not only to yourself but to your baby. Your milk will be better. You probably brought on the involvement of your kidneys by overeating during your pregnancy.

Naturally, during these conditions, a woman must realize the importance of getting the necessary food for both herself and the baby. But it is a great mistake for mothers to think that by overeating to the extent of putting on excess fat, they are better nourishing the unborn or nursing babe.

The reducing diet will not have to be so low as usual while the mother is nursing the baby for she is furnishing him a pound or more of milk a day. The reducing diet probably best not be more than one pound a week.

The reducing pamphlet with its foundation diet, and the article on the diet during pregnancy and nursing will give you particulars.

Even though you are only 17 M., you should begin measures towards correcting your inverted nipples, also when you marry and have children it will be difficult for them to nurse. Every day, when you take your bath, pull or them gently for a few minutes. This will develop the little muscle fibers that are there and remedy the condition.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Heredity, environment, which plays the bigger part in determining a person's character? Some say one, some the other. It can be argued indefinitely without being settled. And there are folks that cannot be accounted for by either. They seem just to "grow," like Topsy.

Such a person is the boy of whom a girl, signing herself "Up a Tree," writes: "His people are what she calls 'common,' although they are said to be honest. He has absolutely made himself, has a charming personality, has made good in everything he has undertaken, but because of his former circumstances this girl is thinking of breaking off her friendship with him. I say to you, 'Up a Tree,' that you are a very lucky girl. He is the friend of such a fine chap. I should say the children of such a man, married to a cultured girl who made every effort to understand and aid their development, would be unusually fine. Probably all of us have some undesirable ancestors, but so very far back, so we needn't be snooty about anyone whose people are not up to our specifications. Haven't you known incorrigible children who came from the very best families? It seems just as liable to happen as the other way around. As to the letters, I think it is just as he says. He has not accomplished what he has set his heart on, and feels he must not get too deeply in love before he does.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a senior in high school, 17 years old, and madly in love with a fellow 20. It is six weeks since my friend has been to my house and three weeks since I have seen him. One night about a month ago, a bunch of fellows and girls were going to a dance. We were going but he had to work and I went with his brother. Do you think my friend is angry about this? He always came to see me at least twice a week and always on Sunday. Please tell me what to do, as I am despondent. My mother is worried because I have lost six pounds in the last month worrying over him. Please don't say it is 'puppy love,' as I am sure it is the real thing. Please tell me if it is wrong to allow this fellow to kiss and love me.

"DESPERATE."
You poor, dear child. I hope your boy friend has come back since you sent your letter to me. It may very well be that he is jealous of his brother and thought you should have stayed away from the dance since he couldn't go. Why don't you write a friendly little note asking him if he is angry about something, and saying you have missed him? If he really has ceased to care—well, I hope he is not the case—brace up, dear, and make up your mind that you will not let it spoil you, but make you more understanding of others. Aren't you fine enough for this? When young people are practically engaged there is no harm in a little "petting."

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am going with a young man one year my senior. I had intentions of marrying him, but everyone is discouraging me, saying he is not good enough for me. He is not of my religion, therefore my family object. I really love him, and don't know whether I'd be able to give him up or not, as he treats me wonderfully, although he is not very refined. He says I will never marry anyone else, because if he can't have me no one else will. I am afraid to marry him for fear I might be making a mistake, and I am afraid to give him up for fear he might kill me. We have intentions of being married secretly in two weeks, but I would like to have your advice first.

"THE BEWILDERED BLONDE."
He doesn't "listen to good." Blonde. After you had been married awhile, you might wish you had let him kill you. No one but a selfish coward would threaten a girl like that. With the difference in religion, the threat and all, unless you love him so much you think you can't get along without him and that your love will overlook all his undesirable qualities, I'd say, don't. Get a court injunction if he threatens you.

Peter's Adventures

"ALL SAFE" WITH THE FLOCK FROM THE FROZEN NORTH

Drake started up for a moment. Then he quacked with joy.

"Thank goodness, at last the folks are coming!" cried he. "That is the herald that we see, and look—after him are following the flock just as fast as they can fly."

Sure enough, out of the far off nowhere other specks appeared in the sky, and before long they turned into great black birds. Soon the herald had come to the edge of the pond, and what a noise he was making.

"Whish, whish, whish." How did he do it, Peter did not know—perhaps with his wings—but Drake must have recognized the sound as a signal, for right away he started to make the same strange noise.

"My family are all safe," cried Drake in an aside to the boy, intoning what the herald was telling him.

"One of the children had a bit of trouble with his wing on the way but got over it all right! The flock have not had a square meal in a day! Food has been scarce along the route. My family are anxious to lose no time in getting to the muskrat beds. A storm is following close upon their tails!"

"But why don't your friend come down?" interrupted the boy at last, after Drake and the herald had spent a lot time in wigwagging. I should think you could talk things over better face to face."

"So we can," answered Drake, "and that is exactly what we are going to do, only I am going up where he is instead of him coming down to me. If he left the air the rest of the flock would think that harm had come to him and would fly away from this spot."

"Listen! Hear herald giving the 'All Safe' signal."

"Whish! Whish!"

Low but strong came the same sound that Peter had heard before, and every single duck in the flock knew quite as well as Drake just exactly what that signal meant.

It was fun to watch the birds hurrying up. They pushed and shoved and bumped into each other, and some of those in the rear rose higher and flew over those in front of them; every duck was determined to be the first to greet Drake now that the herald had given the safety signal.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE VALUE OF EARLY DISCIPLINE—It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.—Lamentations 3:27.

NOT A HERO AFTER ALL

The commission appointed by Signor Mussolini to investigate the loss of the airship on May 25, 1928, finds that the disaster, which cost the lives of eight of the crew and nine rescuers, was caused by "a wrong maneuver." The responsibility for this error is placed by the commission squarely on General Umberto Nobile, who commanded the expedition in which the Italia came to its tragic end on an Arctic ice floe. After the accident, General Nobile allowed himself and his pet dog to be rescued by a Swedish aviator, while a companion with a broken leg and the rest of the crew were left to their fate. The commission can find no justification for this ungallant act by the Italia's commander.

The Italian people loudly resented the bitter judgment passed by the foreign press on General Nobile at the time. They had just been elated by the news that he had dropped their flag on the north pole; and naturally it was hard for them to regard him in any other light than that of a national hero.

They seemed to feel, too, that this criticism of an individual reflected on their race. As long as it came from other countries they could set it down to jealousy; but they cannot similarly dispose of the findings of a fascistically created commission of their own countrymen, which has taken ample time to get all the facts.

The report of this commission confirms the early judgment passed upon the Italia's commander by the extra-Italian world. General Nobile stands today doubly convicted of having been, as far as his conduct of the dirigible is concerned, a poor navigator and a worse sport.

The circumstances that caused him to forget that his first duty was to look to the welfare of his subordinates could not have been more unnerving than those which Captain Scott faced with a fortitude and self-effacement that has immortalized his name. General Nobile lacked the essential qualities of an Arctic explorer. This brought disgrace upon his own name and record; but it in no wise reflected upon the collective character of his chivalrous race.

HEAT AND HOT AIR

In summoning congress to meet in special session, beginning April 15, President Hoover asks the body to "consider further agricultural relief and legislation for limited changes" in the tariff. While this definition of what he desires the national legislature to take up is an explanation of the call, it does not in the least limit the action of the body. Congress could not have assembled until December without a summons from Mr. Hoover, but once it has started operations, it is perfectly free to remain in Washington as long as it pleases and consider and pass any legislation that appeals to it. It has the power to keep on going until the time for the regular session arrives and if Washington were pleasant in summer, it might possibly do so. The deadly climate of the capital city during the "heated term" is the thing which saves the nation from such an inflection.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

By Walter Winchell

NEW YORK—You might have observed the report recently that R. R. Reilly created the new paper milk bottle not used by a big firm. Mr. Reilly, so the story goes, worked on the idea for many years, threatening to do away with the regular milk bottles because at one time his slimmers were disturbed by irritable neighbors who hurled them at weeping cats in the yard.

It appears that Mr. Reilly once had the toothache for a week. Various pain relief failed him, and just when he felt into unconsciousness from sheer exhaustion someone would arouse him by chugging a milk bottle to shoo the cats. It was then that he determined some day there would be nothing but paper milk bottles at it, then place a rubber ring around the neck of the bottle and he started working on the plan and today he is rich.

He is plotting another revelation, and the company he hears is taking little chance of losing his valuable co-operation, having insured him a week ago for a pittance of $500,000.

This trick amplifies the sound through the thickest walls, and—oh, boy! Some fun!

THE MORNING MAIL

"Dear Winchell," affectionately writes Constant Reader (the type who never remembers where it was or who did it). "I wonder if you saw that article in the Daily paper, but I suppose you see everything. Anyway, a fellow who writes a column took up that thing you had about the dramatic editor who was a member of an actor club that barred critics. Well, it seems you finished your work with Mr. Folwell was a member before becoming a dramatic editor, and he is the only dramatic editor in New York who has never covered a play, which probably accounts for his popularity on Broadway."

"Well, this Denver writer added that the reason you critics were not popular on Broadway was because you were fresh guys, all the time making up wise cracks at people, which I guess meant you. Then his next seven paragraphs were from your column, but it didn't say so. Ain't that the dard?"

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE MIND IN ORDER
It is usually a pleasure and also a sanitary and profitable experience to clean up desks, closets, bureau drawers and the like from time to time and to put your things in order. It gives you a orderly feeling and a certain very definite satisfaction from knowing exactly what you have and where it is. It is even more important, from time to time, to clean up the mind and to see that it is in order. That doesn't mean the mind should be dusted off and closed up. The doors should always be kept open for the reception of new ideas, but it helps us face facts and think straight if we will so cover our beliefs and our opinions and our faiths and our prejudices now and then and come to some conclusions as to what we believe and do not believe.

AS TO FAITH

There are men and women who will not believe anything that does not sell itself to their reason. To take that position is to place too high a value on your own limited reason. There are many things undoubtedly true that the reason cannot comprehend.

ANGER

The condition of uncontrolled anger is the condition of the beast. The beast knows no restraints that comes from a trained mind or the human spirit at its best. Therefore it is always best if you find you have slipped into anger, not to do anything while in that state that calls for the exercise of judgment. For example, it is never safe to write a letter when angry. In anger we are not normal. We are almost certain to do the wrong thing or say the wrong thing. Animals have anger but they do not have judgment.

FISH AND UMBRELLAS

Jack Warwick, famous paragrapher, quotes somebody as saying that "a fish has been discovered which can walk overland from one lake to another and live out of water six months at a time." And then Jack says: "I would make a better story to have the fish carry an umbrella." The fact is that for fish to carry umbrellas is not far out of the picture. The writer, on a ship in the Caribbean, saw several Portuguese umbrella fish. Over the back of each fish was a little canopy—a part of its curious body—which made the creature look strangely as though it were carrying a parasol.

MORE GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY URGED
By GEORGE W. NORRIS
Senator From Nebraska

(George William Norris was born in Sandusky county, Ohio, July 11, 1861. He worked out for farmers summers and attended school during the winters, then taught school before attending Baldwin university, Ohio and Indiana normal schools. He later studied law at Valparaiso university and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He served as prosecuting attorney for three terms. From 1885 to 1902 he was judge of the fourteenth Nebraska district. Serving in congress from 1903 to 1913, he was elected senator in that year and is now in his third term which terminates in 1921. He is a Republican.)

I am considering introducing a bill in the next congress with a view to revising the laws governing the appointment of cabinet officers in order to take some of these positions out of the category of political appointments, and bring about greater efficiency in handling the government business.

The logical place to start any such program is with the office of the postmaster general. I would like to see him appointed for 10 years. The length of the term might be lengthened or shortened, but the important thing would be to fix the term so that it would not expire with the term of the president who appointed him.

In my opinion, the position of postmaster general is not one that should be affected by the policies which may change with changing administrations.

Further, there is no reason why the senate should be called upon to pass on the thousands of postmasters each year. The postmaster general should have this power without requiring confirmation of such appointments by the senate.

The plan of long-term cabinet appointments without reference to presidential terms, might well be extended also to the office of the attorney general, and, possibly, to the secretary of interior and the secretary of commerce.

It should not be applied to such an office as that of the secretary of state or to the heads of the departments of war and the navy, however, in my opinion.

The secretary of state has to carry out foreign policies, and that is a function of the president. I would not interfere with that office nor with the heads of the army and the navy.

SPEAKING OF THAT TIRED FEELING

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

A hustle and bustle precedes most weddings—a hurried scramble of shopping for the garments and accessories of the all-important trousseau—and a nervous confusion about the wedding lists, whom to invite to the ceremony, whom to include in the list of announcements only.

One might suppose that the least important point in the whole concern was the happiness of the bride pair and the tranquility of mind necessary to their happiness. Yet it is in reality most important.

A bride should remember that her lover is marrying, not a trousseau and an impressive wedding array, but a wife. And that her personal loveliness, her mental and physical health and beauty will mean far more to him than any gorgeous collection of clothes, and that they will set off her clothes to their best advantage.

In the days before her wedding she should give her attention to every point of her physical appearance. During her courtship days she probably has taken care of her hair and skin and all the points of her appearance which receive public notice. But now she must consider the small personal conceits which will receive interested attention during her honeymoon.

The bride's hands, especially, will be conspicuous. Her new, sparkling rings will call the attention of interested observers to them. Her husband will regard them proudly often, and the bride herself, will be more than usually aware of their charm or lack of charm, as she regards her wedding ring.

She should massage them nightly with a good nourishing and bleaching cream to whiten and soften them attractively. Rubbing each finger from the tip to the base, as if she were trying on a glove, is the first motion of the massage. Then, with a circular movement, using the thumb and forefinger of the other hand, she should massage around each knuckle, to smooth away the puffiness and lines which often mar an otherwise beautiful finger. The wrists, too, should be massaged with cream, with a gentle, upward movement toward the elbow, across the circular, "bracelet" lines at the base of the hand.

A cuticle cream, or oil, rubbed into the skin around the finger nails, will help to preserve the soft texture of the skin, and will aid, materially, the beauty of a manicure. A proper manicure, of course, will be a part of the regular beauty program of the bride before the wedding.

In the nights before her wedding, too, the bride, if her skin needs it, should sleep with layers of nourishing cream over her face and around her eyes, and a bleaching cream on her neck and throat, since she must prepare her skin for the outdoor days of a springtime honeymoon.

Each point of the bride's appearance which can be improved by a little watchful care should be attended to. She will have visited a dentist and made sure that her teeth are in proper condition. She will see carefully to her skin, watch her diet to guard against skin eruptions, and follow a simple daily treatment, embracing, cleansing, stimulating, nourishing and toning of the skin.

Love is blind, we are told, and an adoring husband may be tolerant of such seemingly unimportant details as an unfilled tooth in the adorable mouth of his beloved, or an unaccommodated perfection in her petal-like skin. Yet the bride will be happier if she knows that all her person is right—that no detail of grooming or natural attractiveness has been overlooked.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Robert P. Lamont seems a diplomatic personality. He is a smiling man. His manner is good-natured, friendly.

Directly following his appointment as secretary of commerce, he was revealed as a member of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment—a terrible thing to be discovered, in a member of as dry an official family as President Hoover's is supposed to be.

Naturally he has been joshed about it to the limit of almost anyone's patience. After the millionth time, or thereabouts, such jokes grow very tiresome to their victims.

Yet Colonel Lamont—the new secretary is an ex-World war colonel—continues to look pleasant as he listens to them.

I heard one cracked at his expense the other day, by the very individual who was introducing me to him.

"That cat certainly keeps coming back," said the colonel, laughing.

The colonel, himself, refers to it as a "joke," not a "post," a "position" or a "portfolio"—just a plain job is the way he describes it. The new commerce secretary is not a bit affected or ritzy.

Be that as it may, Colonel Lamont holds the same cabinet job that President Hoover himself formerly held.

True, his immediate predecessor was William F. Whiting, to whom President Coolidge gave a commerce portfolio when Mr. Hoover resigned last summer. However, Secretary Whiting made so little impression as hardly to signify.

It is alongside Mr. Hoover that Secretary Lamont must stand comparison.

In the nature of things, it is apt to be a strain on him—and not alone because Mr. Hoover was a super-secretary of commerce. Maybe Colonel Lamont will prove to be a super-secretary also, but it is a comparison in which every one's tendency will be to give the "breaks" to Mr. Hoover, on account of his present exalted office.

Another thing, President Hoover reasonably may be expected to be especially finicky about the commerce department after nearly eight years' familiarity with the minutest details of its activities.

It will be the acid test of the last drop of the colonel's diplomacy.

Colonel Lamont evidently realizes all this and is mighty particular to assure everyone that he proposes to do not a lick of unnecessary tinkering with a machine which he found in such perfect working order, still under the impetus given to it by the master engineer last—but one—before him.

Be it understood, nobody pays any compliments to Mr. Whiting. The latter appears to have had hopes of holding over into the Hoover administration.

Anyway, during his last few weeks as secretary, he was reported to be planning a departmental reorganization, which it seems unlikely he would have contemplated if he had considered himself a mere stop-gap. The theory is that this shake-up, had it eventuated, would have created numerous vacancies—perhaps explaining the death of test shod for the officially late Mr. Whiting.

He was very undiplomatic.

The diplomatic Colonel Lamont says not a single thing will be altered from the way Mr. Hoover left it—except as the old hands quit, and he will do all he can to prevent that.

Walter F. Brown, the department's first assistant secretary, is gone already—to become postmaster general. W. F. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary for aeronautics, wants to quit as soon as possible, to make more money. There are rumors that Dr. Julius Klein will resign as director of foreign and domestic commerce as soon as he gets back from Europe. And the colonel will bring a personal secretary from Chicago.

Otherwise it will remain the old department to the last messenger boy.

Broiled Steak Baked Potatoes
Buttered Onions—Baked
Cabbage Salad Banana Custard
Tea or Coffee Substitute

All but the salad and custard on this menu are cooked in the oven the steak broiled in the broiler under the burner. If you have no broiler, sear the steak well in a very hot frying pan on top of the stove, then sear, add a little water, cover and finish cooking in the oven. The onions are peeled and also put in the oven with a little water. For the last five minutes or so of cooking add a lump of butter on each onion, salt and pepper and leave in oven until the butter is melted.

Today's Recipes

Banana Custard—Cook together in a double boiler a quart of milk, two eggs, one tablespoon of cornstarch (sifted), one cup of sugar, one cup of water and stir until smooth before adding it to the milk, four tablespoons of sugar and a dessert spoonful of vanilla. Cook this for ten minutes, stirring constantly to keep from getting lumpy. Have ready six or seven bananas, wash well, and when the double boiler mixture is cool, pour it over the bananas and serve. Whipped cream sprinkled with chopped nut meats can be added to make it richer.

Diet and Health

Answers to Mothers
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.
Mrs. A.—The time babies begin to talk is variable, some beginning much earlier than others. If your little boy of two years and three months seems bright in other ways, I would not worry. Some day he will probably burst out with an eloquence which will startle you.

Don't talk baby talk to him. Try to make him ask for things. For instance, if he wants an object and points to it, try to make him name the thing, and if he says it give it to him; if he does not say it, don't give it to him. Try this, anyway, for a while.

Have you had his mouth and throat examined? Take him to a physician to see that he is not tongue-tied and has no other physical handicap.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have.

Mrs. M.—The position of the fetus changes after the sixth month, so it occupies all sorts of different positions. It is the last few days of pregnancy that it usually takes the position it will assume when born. The fact that your baby is not in the right position for birth a month ahead should not worry you.

Reducing During Pregnancy
"I am 75 pounds overweight and am nursing a three-month-old baby. During my pregnancy my kidneys were affected and I had albumen in the urine, but it is negative now. Will it be advisable for me to begin to reduce while nursing a baby?"

"MRS. J."
Yes, you can reduce with benefit during nursing or pregnancy not only to yourself but to your baby. Your milk will be better. You probably brought on the involvement of your kidneys by overeating during your pregnancy.

Naturally, during these conditions, a woman must realize the importance of getting the necessary food for both herself and the baby. But it is a great mistake for mothers to think that by overeating to the extent of putting on excess fat, they are better nourishing the unborn or nursing babe.

The reducing diet will not have to be so low as usual while the mother is nursing the baby for she is furnishing him a pound or more of milk a day. The reduction had probably best not be more than one pound a week.

The reducing pamphlet, with its foundation diet, and the article on the diet during pregnancy and nursing will give you particulars.

Even though you are only 17, M., you should begin measures towards correcting your inverted nipples when you marry and have children it will be difficult for them to nurse. Every day, when you take your bath, pull or then gently for a few minutes. This will develop the little muscle fibers that are there and remedy the condition.

"Whish! Whish!" Low but strong came the same sound that Peter had heard before, and every single duck in the flock knew quite as well as Drake just exactly what that signal meant.

It was fun to watch the birds hurrying up. They pushed and shoved and bumped into each other, and some of those in the rear rose higher and flew over those in front of them; every duck was determined to be the first to greet Drake now that the herald had given the safety signal.

An ambitious young Irishman who hails from Elizabeth, N. J., Mickey Walker by name and a real fighter by reputation, will have a shot at his third major title next week. At the comparatively young age of 27 Mickey, who has been through more real ring battles than the majority, has an opportunity to win the third ring title of his brief career, having already won the championship of two divisions.

This time Mickey will try to lift the light-heavyweight crown from the brow of Tommy Loughran, agile Philadelphiaian.

Nearly seven years ago Mickey came into prominence when he won the welterweight title by defeating Jack Britton, that old master of self defense. He won it only to lose it again in 1926 to Pete Latzo in a fight at Saratoga. But was Mickey dismayed? Not so you could notice it. The Jersey boxer came right back to take the middleweight championship from the late lamented Tiger Flowers the same year.

Now the energetic Elizabeth bulldog is after bigger game and is seeking the 175-pound title. If latest advices from Chicago are to be credited, he also has better than an even chance of getting it.

Mickey's only chance, however, against the clever Tommy is in knocking him out. If he can't tack him to the floor for the count of ten he is likely to be outpointed for the Philadelphiaian is admittedly the equal of any big man in the ring today when it comes to boxing. Loughran can take a punch but is not able to give as good as received. Tommy has often been felled in defense of his crown but has gotten up again and won the decision on points.

While we are on the subject, Mickey is not the only one with ambitions. Loughran himself has designs on the heavyweight throne that Gene Tunney abdicated. He is growing bigger and bigger day by day in every way and it will soon be a case where he will be too heavy to fight in the light-heavy ranks any more. It wouldn't be a big surprise in some quarters if Tommy decided to forfeit his championship to Walker in the event he finds it too difficult to train down to 175 pounds for Mickey. If that happened he might come in overweight, run his chances on outpointing Walker and then range into the unlimited class in quest of further ring laurels.

Incoming Division "B" students at Antioch College will have a chance to vote this week, probably Friday, on the question of abolishing varsity athletics at the school. Division "A" students balloted on the subject last week but the result of the vote was not revealed. After Division "B" puts the matter to a vote the combined ballots will be counted and the results announced.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night you find your very thankful baby's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however; harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Stake Racing Continues On Fair Program

HORSEMEN IN FAVOR OF PLAN INDICATED BY QUESTIONNAIRE

Fast Speed Program Being Arranged For Events Here

By PHIL FR

Stake racing will be continued at the Greene County Fair this year it has been decided.

This announcement was made by Treasurer Brant U. Bell Thursday in disclosing the racing program prepared by the speed committee of the Greene County Agricultural Society.

To determine the reaction, if any, of horsemen to the question of retaining stake races this year as a part of the speed program, questionnaires were sent out several weeks ago by Secretary J. Robert Bryson. About 100 were mailed out and from the answers received it was indicated that a majority of the horsemen queried on the subject favored the plan, thus settling the question.

Stake racing was revived by Greene County at the 1928 fair and attracted nearly eighty of the better grade of horses, including a number from grand circuit tracks. This year the advisability of again holding stake races for at least several seasons was questioned, inasmuch as the most of the fair here this summer, to be held August 6, 7, 8 and 9, will be the first of the Southwestern Shortship Circuit and one of the first if not the first in the entire state.

As far as can be learned the Tri-County Fair Circuit, comprising Greene, Clinton and Fayette Counties, formed last year for the purpose of again featuring stake races, is practically in a state of dissolution. Clinton and Fayette Counties are not expected to have stake races this year and in that event horses entered in the stake events here this summer will probably go from Xenia direct to the Carthage Fair stakes in Hamilton County.

New features being introduced into the speed program at the fair this year will be a green pace and a green trot for horses that have won less than $100. Wednesday's program will include two stake races, one for three-year-olds and one for 2:18 pacers. There will be one stake event on each of the two succeeding days, including a stake race for three year old trotters on Thursday and one for 2:18 trotters on Friday.

Silver cups are also again to be presented to the winners of the four stake races, having been donated by the Lexington Chevrolet Co., the C. A. Weaver clothing store, the L. A. Wagner jewelry store and the Lula Faye dining room.

Entry lists for the stake racing will close April 15, but class entry lists will remain open until Saturday, August 3.

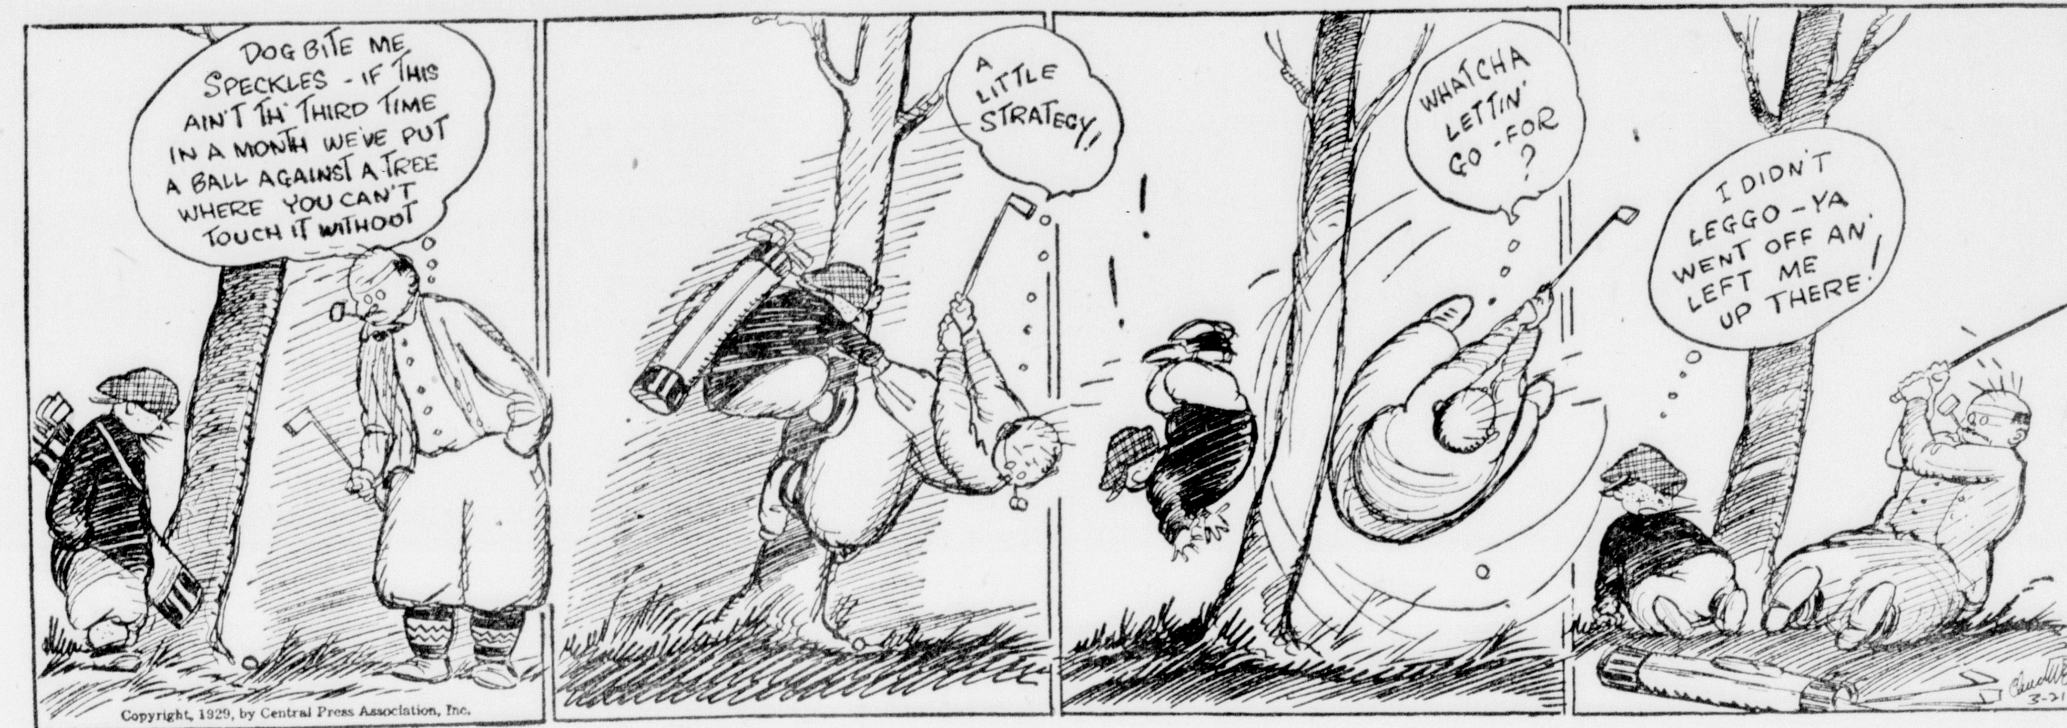

The following speed program for the three-day meet is being announced:
Wednesday, August 7.—2:18 pace (stake), purse $600; 2:22 trot, purse $300; three-year-old pace (stake), purse $500.
Thursday, August 8.—2:14 trot, purse $400; 2:14 pace, purse $400; three-year-old trot (stake), purse $500; green pace, purse $200.
Friday, August 9.—2:22 pace, purse $300; 2:18 trot (stake), purse $600; free-for-all pace, purse $400; green trot, purse $200.

In the 2:18 trot and 2:18 pace stakes, the entrance fee will be $15 with an additional $5 for all extra entries from the same stable of ownership. For the three-year-old trot and pace, the entrance fee will be $10 with $5 for additional entries from the owner or stable. The flag will be down on the three-year-old trot and pace.

Entrance money in all class races will be added to the purse and the entrance fee will be on the one-payment plan, it is announced. The fair board speed committee is composed of C. M. Austin, Bellbrook; B. U. Bell, Xenia, and Grant Miller, Trebels.

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette

Occasionally a situation turns up in a game where an umpire is called upon to make a common sense ruling. There are a number of odd situations that arise that are not covered in the rule book. I remember several years ago I went to Cape Girardeau, Mo., to look over a big country pitcher by the name of Elam Vangilder, who was knocking the rural boys cold with a fast ball.

Vangilder was on the hill in this Sunday game against a team from Perryville, a nearby town. The usual pickup collection of semi-pros, bushers and rimers were collected on each side. The inter-town rivalry was very keen.

The game was not particularly exciting as Vangilder was too good a pitcher for the other fellows but a play came up in the last part of the eighth inning that caused more than ordinary commotion. The Cape was batting and had two out and no one on the bases. The batter also had two strikes and on the next pitch was promptly called out. He turned to argue the point and noticed the catcher had dropped the ball. Instead of running to first he continued jawing with the ump. The catcher then threw the ball to the pitcher, who dropped it into his hip pocket and started walking off the field. At this time, spurred by shouts from the bench, the batsman sprinted toward first. The pitcher, likewise realizing the situation, also sprinted.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or over increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store. —Adv.

Stake Racing Continues On Fair Program

HORSEMEN IN FAVOR OF PLAN INDICATED BY QUESTIONNAIRE

Fast Speed Program Being Arranged For Events Here

By PHIL FR

Stake racing will be continued at the Greene County Fair this year it has been decided.

This announcement was made by Treasurer Brant U. Bell Thursday in disclosing the racing program prepared by the speed committee of the Greene County Agricultural Society.

To determine the reaction, if any, of horsemen to the question of retaining stake races this year as a part of the speed program, questionnaires were sent out several weeks ago by Secretary J. Robert Bryson. About 100 were mailed out and from the answers received it was indicated that a majority of the horsemen queried on the subject favored the plan, thus settling the question.

Stake racing was revived by Greene County at the 1923 fair and attracted nearly eighty of the better grade of horses, including a number from grand circuit tracks.

This year the advisability of again holding stake races for at least several seasons was questioned inasmuch as the most of the fair to be held later this year have eliminated such races from their program. The major objection to stake races, it is said, is that after several months a few outstanding horses crowd out competition and the racing cards do not fill properly, resulting in small fields.

With this in mind, the local board sought to sound out the sentiment of horsemen on the question. Classy fields are assured for the local stake events, however, as the fair here this summer, to be held August 6, 7, 8 and 9, will be the first on the Southwestern Shortship Circuit and one of the first if not the first in the entire state.

As far as can be learned the Tri-County Fair Circuit, comprising Greene, Clinton and Fayette counties, formed last year for the purpose of again featuring stake races, it is practically a state of dissolution. Clinton and Fayette Counties are not expected to have stake races this year and in that event horses entered in the stake events here this summer will probably go from Xenia direct to the Carthage Fair stakes in Hamilton County.

New features being introduced into the speed program at the fair this year will be a green pace and a green trot for horses that have won less than $100. Wednesday's program will include two stake races, one for three-year-olds and one for 2-18 pacers. There will be one stake event on each of the two succeeding days, including a stake race for three year old trotters on Thursday and one for 2-18 trotters on Friday.

Silver cups are also winners of the four stake races, having been donated by the Lank Chevrolet Co., the C. A. Weaver clothing store, the L. A. Wagner jewelry store and the Lula Paye dining room.

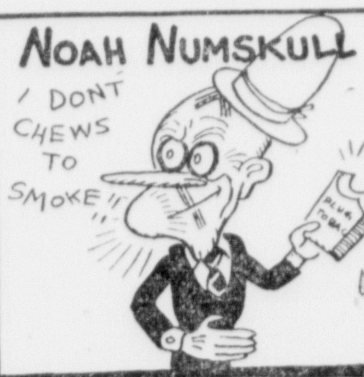

Entry lists for the stake racing will close April 15, but class entry lists will remain open until Saturday, August 3.

The following speed program for the three-day meet is being announced:
Wednesday, August 7—2:18 pace (stake), purse $600; 2:22 trot, purse $300; three-year-old pace (stake), purse $500.
Thursday, August 8—2:14 trot, purse $400; 2:14 pace, purse $400; three-year-old trot (stake), purse $500; green pace, purse $200.
Friday, August 9—2:22 pace, purse $300; 2:18 trot (stake), purse $600; free-for-all pace, purse $400; green trot, purse $200.

In the 2:18 trot and 2:18 pace stakes, the entrance fee will be $15 with an additional $5 for all extra entries from the same stable of ownership. For the three-year-old trot and pace, the entrance fee will be $10 with $5 for additional entries from the owner or stable. The flag will be down on the three-year-old trot and pace.

Entrance money in all class races will be added to the purse and the entrance fee will be on the one-payment plan, it is announced.

The fair board speed committee is composed of C. M. Austin, Bellbrook; D. U. Bell, Xenia; and Grant Miller, Trebleins.

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette. Occasionally a situation turns up in a game where an umpire is called upon to make a common sense ruling. There are a number of odd situations that arise that are not covered in the rule book.

I remember several years ago I went to Cape Girardeau, Mo., to look over a big country pitcher by the name of Elam Vangilder, who was knocking the rural boys cold with a fast ball.

Vangilder was on the hill in this Sunday game against a team from Perryville, a nearby town. The usual pickup collection of semipro, bushers and farmers were collected on each side. The inter-town rivalry was very keen.

The game was not particularly exciting as Vangilder was too good a pitcher for the other fellows but a play came up in the last part of the eighth inning that caused more than ordinary commotion.

The Cape was batting and had two out and no one on the bases. The batter also had two strikes and on the next pitch was promptly called out. He turned to argue the point and noticed the catcher had dropped the ball. Instead of running to first he continued jawing with the ump.

The catcher then threw the ball to the pitcher, who dropped it into his hip pocket and started walking off the field. At this time, spurred by shouts from the bench, the batsman sprinted toward first. The pitcher, likewise realizing the situation, also sprinted.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderline attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuated bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderline at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store. —Adv.

OLD GOLD CIGARETTES WIN FIRST IN TESTS AT YALE

In the recent cigarette test made at the University, Old Golds were chosen by the students as the best. The cigarettes were masked by black labels so that the names of the brands were concealed. Each label was numbered. This was judged to be the most sporting way of testing the merits of the four leading brands. Some 208 Yale students were asked to smoke the four disguised brands without knowing their identity.

They were merely to choose, by number, the one that was most appealing to the taste.

The News supervised the test on January 18 at various fraternity houses and in the News office.

When the votes were recorded it was discovered that Old Gold (Cigarette No. 3) had won. Old Gold was given 63 first choices, which was 11 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 2, 34 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 1, and 53 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 4.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

EXPOSE JAIL HORRORS

Nation-Wide Change In Treatment Of Prisoners May Follow Investigation

By MADELIN LEOP
Staff Writer for Central Press
and The Gazette

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 20.—Shocking tales of brutality in Holmesburg prison, a county jail here, at last are officially declared true. And Philadelphia is against that such treatment could be accorded men in the present age.

The investigation, following a statement of a national commission headed by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, declaring American jails a disgrace, may bring about national agitation for the improvement of penal conditions.

The testimony of a prisoner at Holmesburg, Samuel H. Fuhrman, explained the cause for recent rioting in the prison. Charges against Charles F. Sorber, superintendent, of wanton cruelty, assault and battery and aggravated assault, followed.

Different System Urged
Lack of adoption of better methods, however, has been laid at the door of the board of prison inspectors by the committee on criminal business of the board of judges of the common pleas court.

The board of inspectors is composed of among the most reputable men in the community.

The judges have declared the entire county prison system ought to be reconstructed. They assert: There was only one physician, who they said was unsympathetic; 1,700 prisoners are crowded into cells where there is scarcely room for 1,000; wormy food; lack of exercise except in lockstep marching; no kind of mental diversion; no work for two-thirds of the men; and prisoners held in solitary confinement and given brutal punishment at the arbitrary ruling of the warden.

Prisoner's Testimony
As to punishment, this is the story of Fuhrman, since transferred to the Eastern penitentiary, a state institution:

"I was in my cell. I was visited by David Henry, chief assistant to Charles Sorber, superintendent, two guards, Morris and Otto, and three members of a black gang, John Cobb, known as 'Twenty-five year Mike,' John Robinson, alias 'Little Ike,' and Alfred Doney. They searched my cell and found samples of printed work done in the prison, which I consider petty graft. Letterheads and other material are printed free in the jail for the son of the prison physician and the daughter of the prison superintendent.

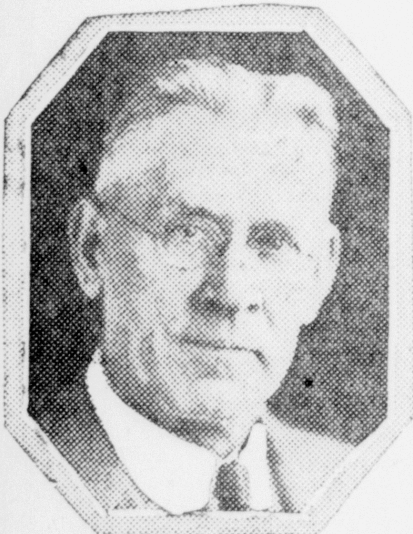

"I told them I intended to expose the graft. Henry quizzed me a while and then ordered me to take off my clothes. I refused to do that and said: 'Never mind, I'll take it with my clothes on.'

"Gang" Gets Into Action
"Then that gang started. Mike gave me a shove and swore at me,

GAINED HEALTH
AND 12 POUNDS
TAKING KONJOLA

Happy Man Had Believed His Case
Beyond Relief—Now Medicine
Gave Him Huge Surprise

"For four years I suffered unspeakable torture from indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism and neuritis," said Mr. Frank J. Martin, 3207 Gilbert Avenue, Cincinnati, O.

MR. FRANK J. MARTIN

"My system was so full of poisons and my stomach, liver and kidneys in such bad shape that not a medicine of the scores I had tried showed the least effort. I could not sleep at night, as my kidneys caused me to get up frequently. I was about to give up in despair and disgust, and when Konjola was recommended I was not interested.

"But I kept reading and hearing so much about Konjola that finally, in desperation, I decided to give this new medicine a chance. What a surprise was in store for me! What a revelation Konjola proved to be! In three weeks I had not a sign of rheumatism or neuritis. In four weeks, I had not only ceased to lose weight, but had gained twelve pounds. I am feeling simply great throughout my system. I can fairly feel the new life and strength and health surging through me. My friends marvel at the change in my appearance, and I am glad to be able to tell them that to Konjola belongs all the credit."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

Dragged to Torture

Fuhrman's tale was not the only one of horrible mistreatment in the prison. Otto, a guard, testified how he carried out the orders of his superiors, and dragged prisoners to the torture rooms.

Torres, an Italian prisoner, told of a beating given him. The same black gang administered it. They got him immediately on his arrival at the jail. "They hit me on the side of the jaw so hard my head almost snapped off," he testified. "Like hit me in the mouth with a black jack, knocking out two teeth. Then they threw me to the floor and kicked me and beat me some more. I was almost unconscious. Both my eyes were closed and I was bleeding on one side and from the mouth. All the time I was yelling for help and mercy."

Sorber, attracted by the noise, arrived and asked what the matter was. Then he said, according to Torres, "If you breathe a word of this I'll put you into the morgue. I'm the undertaker here."

Torres was dragged out, put under a hot shower bath, and given a dose of salts by order of the doctor.

The three negroes in the gang also testified, each saying that they were threatened with the morgue and solitary confinement if they did not carry out Sorber's orders.

Following the charges, Sorber suffered a nervous breakdown and while in a hospital his wife said he had been made "the goat for higher ups."

SENTENCED AFTER
PLEADING GUILTY

Withdrawing a previous plea of not guilty and substituting a guilty plea, Mrs. Mary Louise Hill 22, colored, was fined $10 and costs, sentenced to one year in the Women's State Reformatory at Marysville, O., and then paroled in the custody of her husband by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning. The parole is conditional upon her future good behavior.

Mrs. Hill was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old sister, Helen Curl, and had previously demanded a jury trial after pleading not guilty. She was arrested in Detroit, Mich., and returned to Xenia on an affidavit filed last October by her mother, Mrs. Jessie Toles, 713 E. Church St.

For Colds -

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin! And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsillitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

Nation-Wide Change In Treatment Of Prisoners May Follow Investigation

By MADELIN LEOP
Staff Writer for Central Press
and The Gazette

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 20.—Shocking tales of brutality in Holmesburg prison, a county jail here, at last are officially declared true. And Philadelphia is against that such treatment could be accorded men in the present age.

The investigation, following a statement of a national commission headed by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, declaring American jails a disgrace, may bring about national agitation for the improvement of penal conditions.

The testimony of a prisoner at Holmesburg, Samuel H. Fuhrman, explained the causes for recent rioting in the prison. Charges against Charles F. Sorber, superintendent, of wanton cruelty, assault and battery and aggravated assault, followed.

Different System Urged
Lack of adoption of better methods, however, has been laid at the door of the board of prison inspectors by the committee on criminal business of the board of judges of the common pleas court.

The board of inspectors is composed of among the most reputable men in the community.

The judges have declared the entire county prison system ought to be reconstructed. They assert: There was only one physician, who they said was unsympathetic; 1,700 prisoners are crowded into cells where there is scarcely room for 1,000; wormy food; lack of exercise except in lockstep marching; no kind of mental diversion; no work for two-thirds of the men; and prisoners held in solitary confinement and given brutal punishment at the arbitrary ruling of the warden.

Prisoner's Testimony
As to punishment, this is the story of Fuhrman, since transferred to the Eastern penitentiary, a state institution.

"I was in my cell. I was visited by David Henry, chief assistant to Charles Sorber, superintendent, two guards, Morris and Otto, and three members of a black gang, John Cobb, known as 'Twenty-five year Mike,' John Robinson, alias 'Little Ike,' and Alfred Dorsey.

"They searched my cell and found samples of printed work done in the prison, which I consider petty graft. Letterheads and other material are printed free in the jail for the son of the prison physician and the daughter of the prison superintendent.

"I told them I intended to expose the graft. Henry quizzed me a while and then ordered me to take off my clothes. I refused to do that and said: 'Never mind, I'll take it with my clothes on.'

"Gang" Gets Into Action
"Then that gang started, Mike gave me a shove and swore at me,

GAINED HEALTH
AND 12 POUNDS
TAKING KONJOLA

Happy Man Had Believed His Case
Beyond Relief—New Medicine
Gave Him Huge Surprise

"For four years I suffered unspeakable torture from indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism and neuritis," said Mr. Frank J. Martin, 3207 Gilbert Avenue, Cincinnati, O.

MR. FRANK J. MARTIN

"My system was so full of poisons and my stomach, liver and kidneys in such bad shape that not a medicine of the scores I had tried showed the least effort. I could not sleep at night, as my kidneys caused me to get up frequently. I was about to give up in despair and disgust, and when Konjola was recommended I was not interested.

"But I kept reading and hearing so much about Konjola that finally, in desperation, I decided to give this new medicine a chance. What a surprise was in store for me! What a revelation Konjola proved to be! In three weeks I had not a sign of rheumatism or neuritis. In four weeks, I had not only ceased to lose weight, but had gained twelve pounds. I am feeling simply great throughout my system. I can fairly feel the new life and strength and health surging through me. My friends marvel at the change in my appearance, and I am glad to be able to tell them that to Konjola belongs all the credit."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

Dragged to Torture

Fuhrman's tale was not the only one of horrible mistreatment in the prison. Otto, a guard, testified how he carried out the orders of his superiors, and dragged prisoners to the torture rooms.

Torres, an Italian prisoner, told of a beating given him. The same black gang administered it. They got him immediately on his arrival at the jail. "They hit me on the side of the jaw so hard my head almost snapped off," he testified. "Ike hit me in the mouth with a black jack, knocking out two teeth. Then they threw me to the floor and kicked me and beat me some more. I was almost unconscious. Both my eyes were closed and I was bleeding on one side and from the mouth. All the time I was yelling for help and mercy."

Sorber, attracted by the noise, arrived and asked what the matter was. Then he said, according to Torres, "If you breathe a word of this I'll put you into the morgue. I'm the undertaker here."

Torres was dragged out, put under a hot shower bath, and given a dose of salts by order of the doctor.

The three negroes in the gang also testified, each saying that they were threatened with the morgue and solitary confinement if they did not carry out Sorber's orders.

Following the charges, Sorber suffered a nervous breakdown and while in a hospital his wife said he had been made "the goat for higher ups."

AUTO IS STOLEN

Theft of a Chevrolet coach, belonging to Daniel Jordan, Fayette St., stolen from its parking place on Green St. about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, was reported to police. The machine bore license number 169,134 and motor number 5,295,410.

SENTENCED AFTER
PLEADING GUILTY

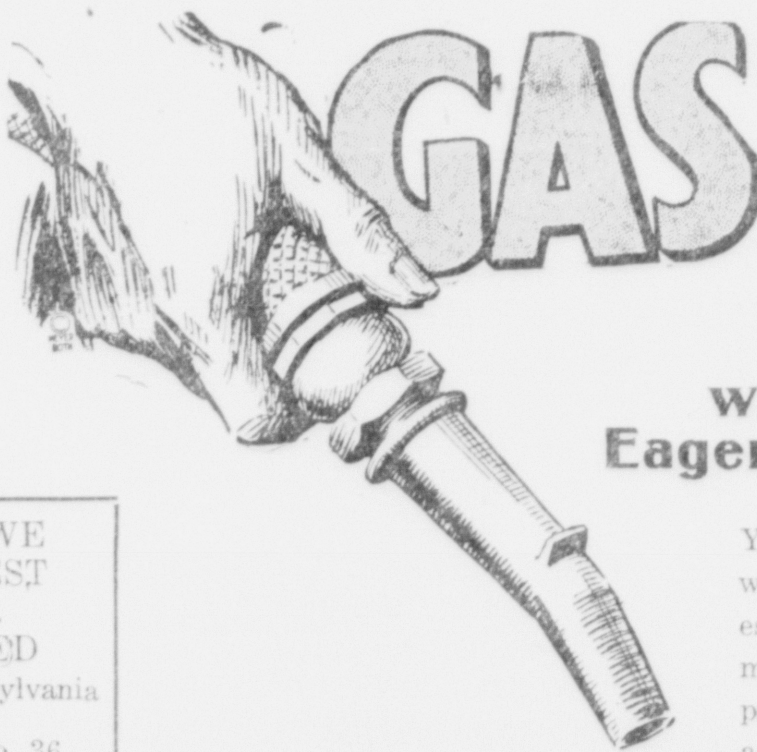

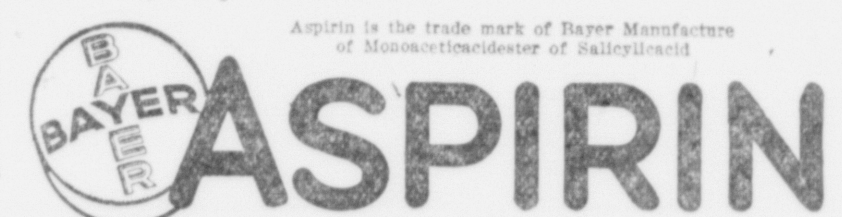

Withdrawing a previous plea of not guilty and substituting a guilty plea, Mrs. Mary Louise Hill 22, colored, was fined $10 and costs, sentenced to one year in the Women's State Reformatory at Marysville, O., and then paroled in the custody of her husband by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning. The parole is conditional upon her future good behavior.

Mrs. Hill was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old sister, Helen Curl, and had previously demanded a jury trial after pleading not guilty. She was arrested in Detroit, Mich., and returned to Xenia on an affidavit filed last October by her mother, Mrs. Jessie Toles, 713 E. Church St.

For Colds -

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin? And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsillitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

COACH BILL LANGE ACCEPTS BID TO APPRECIATION DINNER HERE

Coach William F. Lange, of Muskingum College, has consented to speak at the annual "stag" banquet arranged by the Xenia Central High School athletic council in honor of the "Buccaneer" basketball team, champions of the Miami Valley League, to be held in the school cafeteria Friday night at 6 o'clock.

Coach Lange's acceptance of an invitation to be a guest at the "testimonial dinner" and to give a talk was received by Coach Walter Wilson Thursday.

It is also probable that a representative of the Dayton Daily News will also be present to formally recognize the fact that Xenia, having won the league basketball championship for the second straight season, may keep the News trophy at least one more year. The Bucs have two legs on the award which must be won three times to be retained permanently.

Then there is also another trophy coming to the Bucs this season, presented by the league for winning the title. It was voted to Xenia at the recent meeting of league officials in Xenia and school authorities are hoping the engraving will be completed and that it will arrive in time for presentation at the "appreciation banquet" Friday night.

In order that the school may get a definite idea of the number of persons who will attend the banquet, it is requested that Xenia fans purchase their tickets from senior boys or members of the basketball squad by noon Friday.

It is being predicted that nearly 200 people will be present. Last year covers were laid for more than 125 persons at a similar affair.

Announcement is also being made that the banquet will not conflict with the Xenia Little Theater Guild play to be presented at City Hall Theater the same evening, and that the dinner and program will be over in time to witness the Guild production, which begins about 8:15 o'clock.

ASSETS OF SUTTON STORE TO BE SOLD

Assets of the firm of Sutton Brothers, a partnership which has operated the Sutton Music Store, at present located at 27 Green St., for many years, will be sold separately at a receiver's sale of personal property on the premises at 1 o'clock Saturday, March 30.

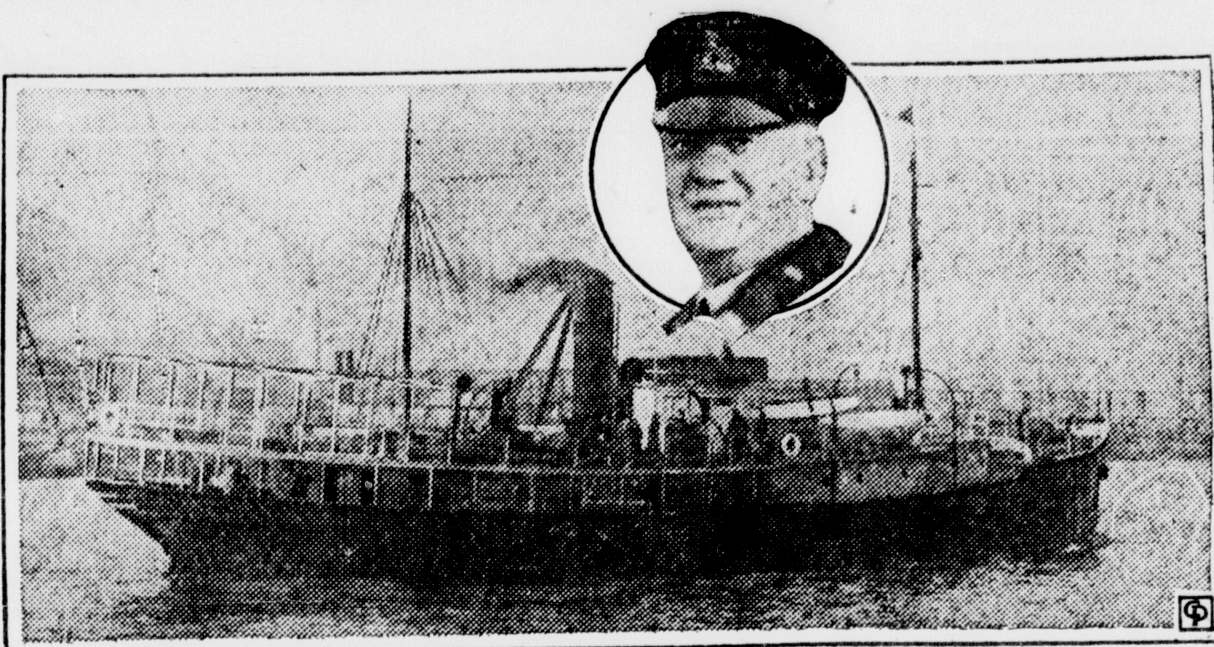

Property which will be offered at public auction will include phonograph records, musical instruments and appliances, store furniture and fixtures.

The sale is being made by T. C. Long, receiver for the firm, as a result of an order of the Probate Court of Logan County in connection with administration of the estate of the late W. C. Sutton. The music store was operated for a number of years by Roy Sutton and his brother, the late W. C. Sutton.

INFANT DIES

Donna Marie Sholler, 2 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sholler of Jamestown, died Thursday morning of whooping cough. The infant was a twin and has one sister who survives beside the parents. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in Jamestown.

WEALTHY MAN SAILS FOR DREAM ISLAND

The "Peary" as she began the voyage, with inset of Matthew F. Bramley.

By JOSEPH S. WARD, JR., Staff Correspondent for Central Press and The Gazette

BOSTON, March 21.—The age of romance is not dead. If evidence of this statement is needed, witness the voyage of the good ship Peary, bound from Boston to a "dream island" somewhere in the Pacific.

The purpose of the voyage is to locate the island, then proceed to "raise" it, or at least to raise a sort of cofferdam around it, so that the sunken paradise may be reduced to dry land by the use of pumps. Then the dreamer of the dream hopes to set foot on the magic island.

The dreamer, and the backer of the expedition, is Matthew F. Bramley, a poor boy who rose to a position of great wealth as a paving contractor in Cleveland. He has with him a select group of passengers, friends selected to share with him the thrill of the romantic voyage.

Bramley said he first saw the island from other dreams in that he appreciated the whereabouts of his unreal adventure. The island, he said, seemed to be a few feet under the surface of the Pacific, and something enchanting about it, he said, drew him into further investigation.

He went to San Pedro, Cal., the location in the dream, and chartered an airplane. Flying over the ocean, he said, he sighted the dream island where it should have been according to his vision. He determined to charter a vessel and make a scientific study.

Forthwith, he went east, to buy the sturdy Peary, and have her outfitted for the voyage. He assembled a crew of eighteen men.

Dressed in the natty uniform of a rear commodore of the Cleveland Yacht Club, and with the club ensign crackling from the masthead, Bramley set sail from Boston with the enthusiasm of a boy.

So before long he may have his "dream island," after about as romantle an exploit as this commercialistic age has offered.

COACH BILL LANGE ACCEPTS BID TO APPRECIATION DINNER HERE

Coach William F. Lange, of Muskingum College, has consented to speak at the annual "stag" banquet arranged by the Xenia Central High School athletic council in honor of the "Buccaneer" basketball team, champions of the Miami Valley League, to be held in the school cafeteria Friday night at 6 o'clock.

Coach Lange's acceptance of an invitation to be a guest at the "testimonial dinner" and to give a talk was received by Coach Walter Wilson Thursday.

It is also probable that a representative of the Dayton Daily News will also be present to formally recognize the fact that Xenia, having won the league basketball championship for the second straight season, may keep the News trophy at least one more year. The Bucs have two legs on the award which must be won three times to be retained permanently.

Then there is also another trophy coming to the Bucs this season, presented by the league for winning the title. It was voted to Xenia at the recent meeting of league officials in Xenia and school authorities are hoping the engraving will be completed and that it will arrive in time for presentation at the "appreciation banquet" Friday night.

In order that the school may get a definite idea of the number of persons who will attend the banquet, it is requested that Xenia fans purchase their tickets from senior boys or members of the basketball squad by noon Friday.

It is being predicted that nearly 200 people will be present. Last year covers were laid for more than 125 persons at a similar affair.

Announcement is also being made that the banquet will not conflict with the Xenia Little Theater Guild play to be presented at City Hall Theater the same evening, and that the dinner and program will be over in time to witness the Guild production, which begins about 8:15 o'clock.

ASSETS OF SUTTON STORE TO BE SOLD

Assets of the firm of Sutton Brothers, a partnership which has operated the Sutton Music Store, at present located at 27 Green St., for many years, will be sold separately at a receiver's sale of personal property on the premises at 1 o'clock Saturday, March 30.

Property which will be offered at public auction will include phonograph records, musical instruments and appliances, store furniture and fixtures.

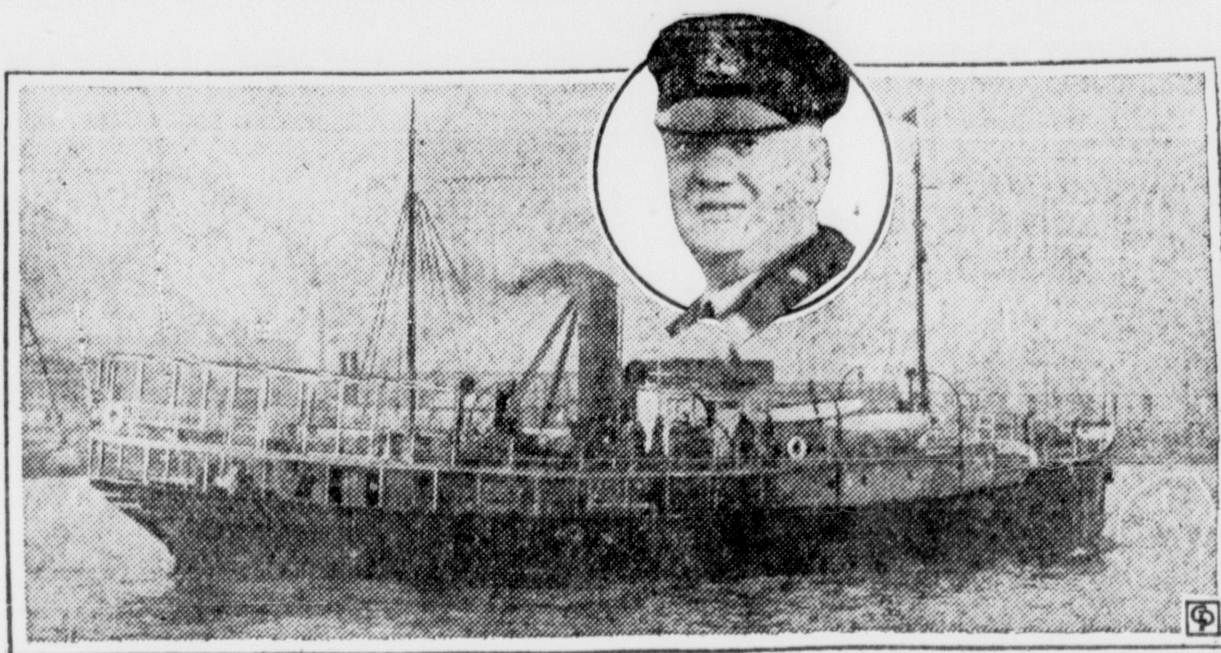

The sale is being made by T. C. Long, receiver for the firm, as a result of an order of the Probate Court of Logan County in connection with administration of the estate of the late W. C. Sutton.

The music store was operated for a number of years by Roy Sutton and his brother, the late W. C. Sutton.

INFANT DIES

Donna Marie Sholler, 2 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sholler of Jamestown, died Thursday morning of whooping cough. The infant was a twin and has one sister who survives beside the parents. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in Jamestown.

WEALTHY MAN SAILS FOR DREAM ISLAND

The "Peary" as she began the voyage, with inset of Matthew F. Bramley.

By JOSEPH S. WARD, JR., Staff Correspondent for Central Press and The Gazette

BOSTON, March 21. — The age of romance is not dead. If evidence of this statement is needed, witness the voyage of the good ship Peary, bound from Boston to a "dream island" somewhere in the Pacific.

The purpose of the voyage is to locate the island, then proceed to "raise" it, or at least to raise a sort of cofferdam around it, so that the sunken paradise may be reduced to dry land by the use of pumps. Then the dreamer of the dream hopes to set foot on the island.

The dreamer, and the backer of the expedition, is Matthew F. Bramley, a poor boy who rose to a position of great wealth as a paving contractor in Cleveland. He has with him a select group of passengers, friends selected to share with him the thrill of the romantic voyage.

Bramley said he first saw the island from other dreams in that his unreal daydreams. The island, he said, seemed to be a few feet under the surface of the Pacific, and something enchanting about it, he said, drew him into further investigation.

He went to San Pedro, Cal., the location in the dream, and chartered an airplane. Flying over the ocean, he said, he sighted the dream island where it should have been according to his vision. He determined to charter a vessel and make a scientific study.

Forthwith, he went east, to buy the sturdy Peary, and have her outfitted for the voyage. He assembled a crew of eighteen men.

Dressed in the natty uniform of a rear commodore of the Cleveland Yacht Club, and with the club ensign crackling from the masthead, Bramley set sail from Boston with the enthusiasm of a boy.

So before long he may have his "dream island," after about as romantic an exploit as this commercialistic age has offered.

NINE INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY SPECIAL GRAND JURY HERE

Nine indictments involving five persons were returned by the grand jury for the January term at its special one-day session in Common Pleas Court Wednesday.

Although the jury completed its investigation of nine cases at 3:30 p. m., no formal report was made until the return of Judge R. L. Gowdy, who had been presiding on the Fayette County bench for two days. He was back on his home bench Thursday.

The jury examined more than sixteen witnesses and ignored none of the cases presented. A total of twenty true bills were found by the jury at its two one-day sessions Wednesday and a week ago. No examination of the County Jail was made.

Six of the nine latest indictments involved alleged failure of truck drivers to obtain certificates from the Public Utilities Commission.

Two indictments of this nature were returned against Elmer Bogard, Hayden Davis and Wayne Smith. Bogard is charged with operating a truck for hire over an irregular route from the Pistick farm to the Cedarville Farmers' Grain Co. December 15, 1928 and from the Watson farm to Bert Limes at Jamestown last July 16 without first obtaining a certificate.

Hayden Davis is accused of illegally driving a truck from the W. B. Bryson farm to the Xenia Stock Yards last October 28 and from the Russell Brewer farm to the stock yards last December 1. Smith is charged with unlawful operation of a truck from the George Hagler farm to the stock yards January 14 and from Roy Reeves in Warren County to the Wilmington Stock Yards last December 5.

Andrew Fleming 18, Washington C. H., was indicted twice for burglary and larceny in connection with the confessed theft of seven chickens worth $12.70 from Glen

H. Cline, near Cedarville, and seventeen chickens valued at $26.50, from Zetta McElroy, near Cedarville, last Friday night.

Fred Dale was also indicted for making an alleged assault upon William Martin, March 3.

C. B. Hazard acted as foreman of the grand jury. The five persons under indictment will probably not be arraigned for several days.

SPRING VALLEY

Miss Bess Allen, of Columbus, was the week end guest of her mother, Mrs. Ella Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Badke and son, Charles, and Miss Mildred Badke, of Dayton, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Budke.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Marshall, of Dayton, called on Mr. Willis Marshall, Sunday afternoon.

The High School Aid entertained the basketball boys' and girls' teams at a banquet at the high school building Friday night. An excellent program was given. Mr. Wiggins, of Cleveland, gave the address. Prof. and Mrs. Luther Jones, of Wilmington furnished the music.

Mrs. Mary Copey returned home Sunday from a three weeks' visit with relatives in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bolten, of Richmond, Ind., were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Max Barnard.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Van Winkle, of Cincinnati, attended the funeral Tuesday of Mrs. Van Winkle's brother, Mr. Edward Walton.

An all day missionary was held at the M. E. Church Sunday. Mrs. Dorothy Duncen, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mrs. Stanley Wiant were the speakers for the day.

Mrs. I. O. Peterson and son, William, were Dayton visitors, Monday. Mr. Peterson, who is a student at O. S. U. is spending the spring vacation at home.

Mr. John Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. George Benson traded properties. Mr. and Mrs. Benson and family will move to their new home in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Venable, who have been living in the Thomas residence will move into the Ocie Salsbury property on West Main St.

The funeral services of Mr. Edward Walton were held at the Friends Church Tuesday afternoon. Burial was made in the Spring Valley Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Carr and sons, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Compton, Sunday. Miss Mildred Alexander who is teaching near Circleville, was the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Alexander.

Dr. R. V. Kennon, of Cedarville, was a business visitor here Tuesday.

SCOUT NEWS

Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening at the Scout cabin. The meeting will be in charge of Frankmer, Scout patrol leader, and patrols are urged by Scoutmaster Ernest Blackburn to have a attendance.

All Boy Scouts are reminded by Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury to bring a plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon at the regular meeting of No. 41 Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the Scout cabin. The meeting will be a study of the flag and Scoutmaster requirements will be reviewed at this meeting.

Law a Boomerang

Although four years ago he worked and voted in favor of a Michigan law requiring a five-day wait between the application for a marriage license and the actual issuance of the license, State Senator Norman B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, Mich., was unwilling to wait that long for his own marriage license. He eloped with Miss Klea Smith, of Adrian, and was married at Toledo, O.

WOMAN IS FINED

A fine of $10 and costs and sentence of thirty days in the County Jail was meted out by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday to Mrs. Mary Tomlinson Jamestown, when she entered a guilty plea to an affidavit charging her with non-support and neglect of six minor children ranging in age from two to fourteen years.

TENTH AND FINAL LEGION ESSAY

Frances Marshall, 17, 252 N. King St., is the author of the following essay on "What Constitutes Good Citizenship," last of the ten selected by the judges of the American Legion essay contest, which have been published:

"WHAT CONSTITUTES GOOD CITIZENSHIP?"

In determining what constitutes good citizenship let us first consult Webster's Dictionary. It says that a citizen is a person who has full municipal and political privileges. Citizenship is defined as the state of being vested with the rights of a citizen. There are several qualities that make for good citizenship so let us take them up separately.

In the first place in order to be a good citizen it is necessary to obey all the laws of the country, city, state and federal. This does not mean to only obey those which are convenient and not obey those which one does not like. As soon as individuals realize that laws are made to protect themselves as well as other people they will begin to obey them. In order to teach the people to respect all the laws it is necessary to start early in life. Boys may join the Boy Scouts of America and girls the Girl Scouts. Another helpful way of educating the children is to form a civic league or civic club in which they promise to become true, loyal citizens. The first duty of a citizen is to obey the laws at all times.

Every good citizen should exercise all rights of citizenship. Every time an election is held it is the duty of each citizen to go to the polls and vote. He must inform himself in advance, so that he may be able to vote intelligently, not only on the candidates but also on the issues at hand.

A good citizen must take an interest in all things that concern the welfare of his country. It must be an active and unselfish interest. He must be willing to give his time and his talents and his money. A good citizen must also uphold all institutions and be willing to help in any way that he can.

Proper respect for our flag should be shown by a good citizen. Whenever the national anthem is played everyone should stand; whenever in the presence of the flag men should remove their hats. The flag should be revered. We should observe all the rules which have been laid down in regard to the treatment of the flag, never abusing it nor permitting anyone else to abuse it in our presence.

All citizens who have the best

REPORT FIFTY DEAD; RESCUE WORK RUSHED TO REMOVE MINERS

The vicinity was called upon to report at the mine for relief work. Fighting their way through the gas-filled chambers of the mine at least fifty of the entombed miners escaped through the entrance of the Valley Camp Mine No. 1.

The entrance of the Valley Camp Mine No. 1, which connects with the Kinloch workings, is about two miles from the shaft where the force of the blast was felt.

After reaching the surface all of the men were able to walk without assistance.

Mine experts and rescue workers said the explosion was one of the worst they had ever seen. Twelve miners were killed in an explosion in the Kinloch mine February 20, 1928.

Since that time the Kinloch mine has been examined and tested by state bureau of mine officials and recently the officials of the company were given a perfect bill of health and operation for the workings.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 21.—Thirty expert mine rescue men met here by automobile this morning for the Parnassus mine, twenty miles north of Pittsburgh, where 300 men were reported entombed by an explosion.

The men are from four mines operated by the Elm Grove Coal Company, a subsidiary of the Valley Camp Coal Company. They were headed by Ernest Mobley, general manager of the Valley and Joseph Arkwright, general manager of Elm Grove concern.

The Stief Flying Club of Munsville has offered four airplanes to carry anyone to the scene in case of emergency.

MORGAN CALLER AT WHITE HOUSE; FESS VISITS PRESIDENT

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, who is himself vice-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, called at the White House in Washington, D. C., Wednesday to pay his respects to President Hoover, the first civil engineer president to occupy the White House.

Among other callers was Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, who discussed with the president the candidates of a number of Ohioans for federal appointments.

Senator Fess is interested in particular in the reappointment of Renick W. Dunlap, Kingston, as assistant secretary of agriculture, and in the promotion of Haveth E. Man, Dayton, United States district attorney for Southern Ohio, to an assistant attorney-generalship at Washington.

Favorable public reaction to the president's law enforcement program was also reported by the Buckeye senator.

Senator Fess left the capital Wednesday night for Dayton, Ill., where he will address the Decatur Transportation Club Thursday night on the subject of railroad consolidation. Saturday he will be the speaker at a luncheon of the Hamilton Club. He will spend Saturday in Toledo, with his son, Lehr Fess, and then come to his home in Yellow Springs for a two-day rest before going to Columbus to address the thirty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Buckeye Republican Club Tuesday.

MT. ZION

Unit No. 2 of the Greene County Council of Religious Education met at Mt. Zion Church Sunday afternoon. The meeting was well attended. The Beaver Creek High School furnished the music with Mr. Sayers as leader. Mrs. Carlin, of Xenia, was in attendance. The new officers of this unit were elected. Friend Conner of the Brethren Church at Zimmerman was elected president; Rev. Leonard Broadstone, of Alev, secretary; Carl McMichael, treasurer. Rev. George Subitz, of Central Theological Seminary of Dayton delivered an address on making things possible. The county convention will take place at Xenia, May 26.

The sunrise service will be held at Mt. Zion Church Easter morning at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Clay Center and family moved into their new home last Monday. We welcome them into their new home.

Mrs. Ida Coy, Mrs. Bessie Ferguson and the Merrick sisters visited Mrs. Sarah Lawson at Columbus Tuesday. They found her much better.

BURNED TO DEATH

NEW PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—Mrs. Emmanuel Visintiner, 35, of Midvale, was burned to death at the home of her mother at Barnhill when her clothing caught fire from a stove.

Passed Up!

By ROE FULKERSON

©1929 by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown, unattractive to men, dances to make herself popular, and, after the death of her parents, to make a living. Dancing brings her many men acquaintances, most of them undesirable, and separates her from her old friends, except George Harris. On an automobile ride with Andy Adair, the car is wrecked and her knee is injured; but it is George, instead of Andy, who finances her through one and stands by through two hospital experiences. Andy never appears after the accident. Betty takes a position as cashier in the restaurant George owns, and fears she must marry him out of gratitude. She obtains his consent to her taking a business course at night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

The day following Betty's conversation with George about taking a business course, she went to a business college two blocks from the restaurant. Here she found that night classes in typing and stenography could be had at a tuition so low she was surprised.

She matriculated at once, as new classes had been started in both these studies just one week before. By leaving her place of employment fifteen minutes early each day, she was able to get to the school on time.

The next six months were the happiest Betty had known since her parents died. She took to study naturally, and had not been out of school long enough to lose the study habit. Most of the pupils were boys and girls younger than she, but as they were less in earnest she found no difficulty in keeping up with them.

Typing was taught to the tune of a phonograph, gradually increasing in speed. The sense of rhythm acquired during her dancing days made her fingers dance time to the music on the typewriter keys, just as her feet had once tapped out time on the floor.

Her thorough work in English at school also stood her in good stead. She learned shorthand as rapidly as she learned to type. The two hours' work each evening instead of being tiresome, was a pleasure. Bookkeeping seemed easy, too. She went about her work with pleasant anticipation of her school at night.

By the time she had her typing speed up to fifty words a minute she asked George about the typewriter he would install behind her desk for the few letters he wrote. When he bought the machine her speed on it astonished him. He seemed greatly pleased at the success of what he now fondly believed had been his suggestion.

Betty had not the courage to tell him she was fitting herself for more pleasant and lucrative employment. Her appreciation of his kindness made her feel disloyal. She had definitely made up her mind to get away from the restaurant as soon as she could do so without offending George. But with this plan in mind she knew that if George insisted on her staying, and asked her to marry him, she would do so out of gratitude.

Time had healed the wound Andy Adair had left in her heart. She no longer felt unkindly toward him for not even telephoning the hospital to find out if she were alive or dead. When she passed through a crowded street she watched the faces of the men for a glimpse of either Harry Ford or Andy, but never saw either.

She wished, at times, that she might visit one of the night clubs which she knew they used to haunt. She wanted to sit across the room from Andy and watch him. One night she had an almost irresistible impulse to call him from Mrs. Hogan's, but her pride would not permit her to do this.

She sighed, trying to impress on her mind that she was just the playing of the moment to Andy. After his toy was broken he had forgotten her for some new toy. She liked the simile, and tortured herself trying to imagine what his new toy was like.

These reflections generally occurred during the idle hours of the restaurant. She had no time for such thoughts at business school from eight until ten. She always went immediately home from there, and until eleven o'clock practiced her dance routines. Her knees were now almost as good as new, yet she continued her dancing for the pleasure of doing it. Mrs. Hogan always brought her knitting or sewing to the dining room, her fingers flying in time to the music and Betty's heels.

Regular hours, plenty of wholesome food eaten regularly, plenty of work and exercise in dancing, all did their part. Betty grew prettier every day. Over and over again men tried to pick an acquaintance with her at the restaurant. She chatted pleasantly with them all, and traded badinage, but none of the suggestions came to see them outside of the restaurant, she always had the excuse that she went to school at night. It seemed to make an immediate difference. She had learned when a school girl that the boys in high school did not linger long around the studios girl. Culture seemed to frighten them. Here she found it no different.

"Suppose you write me a letter instead," suggested George.

One particularly pleasant fellow she had reared about his losing interest in her as soon as he found out she was in school. "Yes," he answered, "men work hard all day, ever, for her own experience as a dancer bore out his statement. Men lost interest in her when she stopped dancing.

Before she finished the first six months of the intensive course at the business school the proprietor offered her a position there as a teacher. The compensation, however, was not good enough. With her new knowledge she thought she could be more valuable to some busy professional man, like Doctor Clark.

There was a little ceremony in the assembly room of the school the night she graduated. Parents and friends of the pupils came. George Harris was there to see Betty get her diploma. She graduated at the head of her class, proud of her accomplishment. She was glad George was there to hear the nice things said about her.

A local business man made a speech. He told them that the very best brains in the country flowed through the pencil of some stenographer. People who wrote shorthand came in closer contact with big men and big business than any other class of employees. If they did not learn in this way the fault was theirs.

When the graduation exercises were over, George asked Betty to ride back to Mrs. Hogan's with him. In his car he handed her a portable typewriter as a present. "Now that you are out of school, you may find it useful in your room to do letters," he suggested.

George wanted to go for a drive, but Betty was afraid he would grove sentimental. She insisted she could not wait. He must come home with her at once so she could examine the new typewriter and see how it worked.

He smiled at her enthusiasm and drove her home, coming in to see her open the machine. Betty was so pleased she fairly jumped up and down with happiness.

"Sit down there, Mister Man," she cried. "I'll take dictation from you how good I am. You are a new boss, now, and are trying me out to test my speed."

"Suppose you write me a letter instead," suggested George.

"All right! I will. You must have the first words written on my new machine." Seating herself, she let her fingers fly rapidly over the keys, and then pulled out the sheet of paper and handed it to him.

"Mr. George Harris."

"Dear Sir:

"This short note is to thank you for the nice new typewriter on which it is written, and to tell you that I think you are the kindest-hearted gentleman who ever lived. Both the typewriter and the new owner will always be at your service in the hope that they will be able some day to do something for you to repay you for all the kindness you have shown. You will always find us ready to respond in any way in our power to your slightest wish. We are,

"Yours truly,"

George read the note while Betty laughed at him. He took a fountain pen out of his pocket and handed it to her. "Sign it, please," he said.

Still laughing, Betty took the pen and the letter. Not until her eyes ran over the hastily written it did she realize how they might be taken by this serious-minded man. She did not hesitate, however, but wrote her name. Her hand wrote the name, but it was in the wallet he always carried in his side pocket.

"I shall hold you to that," smiled.

"I will make good," assured Betty, but there was a lump in her throat.

George left almost at once, and was left with the realization that in a moment of happiness and joy she had committed her name on paper. She had not intended but did not know how to tell it so.

REPORT FIFTY DEAD; RESCUE WORK RUSHED TO REMOVE MINERS

The vicinity was called upon to report at the mine for relief work. Fighting their way through the gas-filled chambers of the mine at least fifty of the entombed miners escaped through the entrance of the Valley Camp Mine No. 1.

The entrance of the Valley Camp Mine No. 1, which connects with the Kinloch workings, is about two miles from the shaft where the force of the blast was felt.

After reaching the surface all of the men were able to walk without assistance.

Mine experts and rescue workers said the explosion was one of the worst they had ever seen. Twenty miners were killed in an explosion in the Kinloch mine February 20, 1928.

Since that time the Kinloch mine has been examined and tested by state bureau of mine officials and recently the officials of the company were given a perfect bill of health and operation for the workings.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 21.—Thirty expert mine rescue men left here by automobile this morning for the Parnassus mine, twenty miles north of Pittsburgh, where 300 men were reported entombed by an explosion.

The men are from four mines operated by the Elm Grove Coal Company, a subsidiary of the Valley Camp Coal Company. They were headed by Ernest Mobley, general manager of the Valley and Joseph Arkwright, general manager of Elm Grove concern.

The Stiefel Flying Club of Muncie has offered four airplanes to carry anyone to the scene in case of emergency.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, who is himself vice-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, called at the White House in Washington, D. C., Wednesday to pay his respects to President Hoover.

The first civil engineer president to occupy the White House.

Among other callers was Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, who discussed with the president the candidacies of a number of Ohioans for federal appointments.

Senator Fess is interested in particular in the re-appointment of Renick W. Dunlap, Kingston, as assistant secretary of agriculture, and in the promotion of Haverth E. May, Dayton, United States district attorney for Southern Ohio, to an assistant attorney-generalship at Washington.

Pavorable public reaction to the president's law enforcement program was also reported by the Buckeye senator.

Wednesday night the capital Wednesday night for Senator Fess, where he will address the Dayton Transportation Club Thursday night on the subject of railroad consolidation. Saturday he will be the speaker at a luncheon of the Hamilton Club. He will spend Saturday in Toledo, with his son, Lehr Fess, and then come to his home in Yellow Springs for a two-day rest before going to Columbus to address the thirty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Buckeye Republican Club Tuesday.

Union No. 2 of the Greene County Council of Religious Education met at Mt. Zion Church Sunday afternoon. The meeting was well attended. The speakers were Rev. George Subbitz, of Central Theological Seminary of Dayton delivered an address on making things possible. The county convention will take place at Xenia, May 26.

The sunrise service will be held at Mt. Zion Church Easter morning at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Clay Gentner and family moved into their new home last Monday. We welcome them into their new home.

Mrs. Eva Cox, Mrs. Beadie Ferguson and the Merckle sisters visited Mrs. Sarah Lawson at Columbus Tuesday. They found her much better.

Passed Up!

READ THIS FIRST:
Betty Brown, unattractive to men, dances to make herself popular, and, after the death of her parents, to make a living. Dancing brings her many men acquaintances, most of them undesirable, and separates her from her old friends, except George Harris. On an automobile ride with Andy Adair, the car is wrecked and her knee is injured; but it is George, instead of Andy, who finances her through one and stands by through two hospital experiences. Andy never appears after the accident. Betty takes a position as cashier in the restaurant George owns, and fears she must marry him out of gratitude. She obtains his consent to her taking a business course at night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

The day following Betty's conversation with George about taking a business course, she went to a business college two blocks from the restaurant. Here she found that night classes in typing and stenography could be had at a tuition so low she was surprised.

She matriculated at once, as next classes had been started in both these studies just one week before. By leaving her place of employment fifteen minutes early each day, she was able to get to the school on time.

The next six months were the happiest Betty had known since her parents died. She took to study naturally, and had not been out of school long enough to lose the study habit. Most of the pupils were boys and girls younger than she, but as they were less in earnest she found no difficulty in keeping up with them.

Typing was taught to the tune of a phonograph, gradually increasing in speed. The sense of rhythm acquired during her dancing days made her fingers dance time to the music on the typewriter keys, just as her feet had once tapped out time on the floor.

Her thorough work in English at school also stood her in good stead. She learned shorthand as rapidly as she learned to type. The two hours' work each evening instead of being tiresome was a pleasure. Bookkeeping seemed easy, too. She went about her work with pleasant anticipation of her school at night.

By the time she had her typing speed up to fifty words a minute she asked George about the typewriter he would install behind her desk for the few letters he wrote.

When he bought the machine her speed on it astonished him. He seemed greatly pleased at the success of what he now fondly believed had been his suggestion.

Betty had not the courage to tell him she was not fitting herself for more pleasant and lucrative employment. Her appreciation of his kindness made her feel disloyal. She had definitely made up her mind to get away from the restaurant as soon as she could do so without offending George. But with this plan in mind she knew that if George insisted on her staying, and asked her to marry him, she would do so out of gratitude.

Time had healed the wound Andy Adair had left in her heart. She no longer felt unkindly toward him for not even telephoning the hospital to find out if she were alive or dead. When she passed through a crowded street she watched the faces of the men for a glimpse of either Harry Ford or Andy, but never saw either.

She wished, at times, that she might visit one of the night clubs which she knew they used to haunt. She wanted to sit across the room from Andy and watch him. One night she had an almost irresistible impulse to call him from Mrs. Hogan's, but her pride would not permit her to do this.

She sighed, trying to impress on her mind that she was just the playing of the moment to Andy. After his toy was broken he had forgotten her for some new toy. She liked the simile, and tortured herself trying to imagine what his new toy was like.

These reflections generally occurred during the half hours of the restaurant. She had no time for such thoughts at business school from eight until ten. She always went immediately home from there, and until eleven o'clock practiced her dance routines. Her knees were now as good as new, yet she continued her dancing for the pleasure of doing it. Mrs. Hogan always brought her knitting or sewing to the dining room, her fingers flying in time to the music and Betty's heels.

Regular hours, plenty of wholesome food eaten regularly, plenty of work and exercise in dancing, all did their part. Betty grew prettier every day. Over and over again men tried to pick an acquaintance with her at the restaurant. She chatted pleasantly with them all, and traded badinage, but when the suggestion came to see them outside of the restaurant, she always had the excuse that she went to school at night. It seemed to make an immediate difference.

She had learned when a school girl that the boys in high school did not linger long around studious girls. Culture seemed to frighten them. Here she found it no different.

George read the note while Betty laughed at him. He took a fountain pen out of his pocket and handed it to her. "Sign it, please," he said.

Still laughing, Betty took the pen and the letter. Not until her eyes

"Suppose you write me a letter instead," suggested George.

One particularly pleasant fellow she had teased about his losing interest in her as soon as he found out she was in school. "Yes," he answered, "men work hard all day. Girls are a diversion to them. When they relax at night they don't want to be instructed, but amused. The less brains and the more beauty a girl has, the more they like her, that's the reason we all fall for show girls. They haven't any brains or they wouldn't be show girls!"

It was on the tip of Betty's tongue to tell him she used to be a show girl, but she refrained. Her remark lingered in her mind, however, for her own experience as a dancer bore out his statement. Mrs. Hogan lost interest in her when she stopped dancing.

Before she finished the first six months of the intensive course at the business school the proprietor offered her a position there as a teacher. The compensation, however, was not good enough. With her new knowledge she thought she could be more valuable to some busy professional man, like Doctor Clark.

There was a little ceremony in the assembly room of the school the night she graduated. Parents and friends of the pupils came. George Harris was there to see Betty get her diploma. She graduated at the head of her class, proud of her accomplishment. She was glad George was there to hear the nice things said about her.

A local business man made a speech. He told them that the very best brains in the country flowed through the pencil of some stenographer. People who wrote shorthand came in closer contact with big men and big business than any other class of employees. If they did not learn in this way the fault was theirs.

When the graduation exercises were over, George asked Betty to ride back to Mrs. Hogan's with him. In his car he handed her a portable typewriter as a present. "Now that you are out of school, you may find it useful in your room to do letters," he suggested.

George wanted to go for a drive, but Betty was afraid he would grow sentimental. She insisted she could not wait. He must come home with her at once so she could examine the new typewriter and see how it worked.

He smiled at her enthusiasm and drove her home, coming in to see her open the machine. Betty was so pleased she fairly jumped up and down with happiness.

"Sit down there, Missus Man," she cried. "I'll take dictation from you direct to the machine, to show you how good I am. You are in new boss, now, and are trying me out to test my speed."

"Suppose you write me a letter instead," suggested George.

"All right! I will. You must have the first words written on my new machine." Seating herself, she typed her fingers fly rapidly over the keys, and then pulled out the sheet of paper and handed it to him.

"Dear Sir:

"This short note is to thank you for the nice new typewriter on which it is written, and to tell you that I think you are the kindest, heartiest gentleman who ever lived. Both the typewriter and the new owner will always be at your service in the hope that they will be able some day to do something for you to repay you for all the kindness you have shown. You will always find us ready to respond in any way in our power to your slightest wish. We are,

"Yours truly,"

George read the note while Betty laughed at him. He took a fountain pen out of his pocket and handed it to her. "Sign it, please," he said.

The Theater

Motion picture actresses are not all beautiful but dumb, as we said the other day, and there is no better witness than the opposite is true than the once glamorous star, May Allison.

The blande and lovely May quit films as both have comfortable fortunes, wisely invested.

May has never regretted her decision, she says. Quirk has many friends among writers and editors and naturally his wife heard much shop talk. She soon found herself taking part in these discussions.

Fans will see a new Mary in "Coquette". She has discarded her curls for a bob and the role is more sophisticated than any she has ever played before. The picture ends tragically. Sound interpretations will give the public the first opportunity to hear her voice.

Johnny Mack Brown, who recently cavorted in the backfield of the University of Alabama football team, will play opposite Miss Pickford. He is the mountaineer, with whom Mary is in love and whom Mary's father murders.

Twenty Years '09- Ago -'29

Twelve cases, seven of them taken up on error, are on the docket for consideration by the Circuit Court, which meets for the Spring term Monday morning.

The seniors have decided to give "Esmiralda" for the usual class night play. The parts have been given, and they are already practicing under the direction of Miss Jean Elwell.

The K. of P. Lodge is arranging to give a dance on Monday, March 29. The invitations will be issued in a few days.

The boys and girls chorus of the First Reformed Church will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m., to practice the Easter music. All members are requested to be present.

Following in the footsteps of her compatriot, Vilma Banky, comes Dina Gralla, Austrian actress, whose movies are to receive distribution over here.

until one day an editor said to her: "If you will write what you have just told me, I will buy it." So Mrs. Quirk, without telling her husband, wrote an article and submitted it. It was published in a popular magazine and more ordered. Another editor wanted to sign her up for a series.

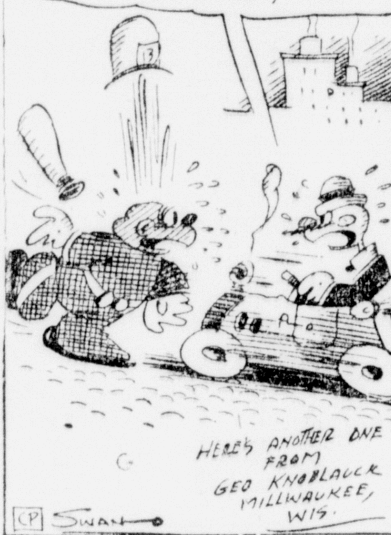

Mrs. Quirk says her husband was not jealous but surprised and pleased. Dumb? Decide for yourself.

A motion picture co-starring Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, long awaited, appears near realization. Fairbanks has finished "The Iron Mask" and when Miss Pickford completes "Coquette", now nearly done, they will start work on the story.

Fairbanks admits the picture will be made and that it will have sound sequences but is silent in other details. The picture will undoubtedly be a big box-office attraction, because such a movie has been awaited for years. Furthermore it will probably be the last picture for "America's Sweetheart". Her retirement has been expected for some time. Neither Doug nor his wife need to work in

Motion picture actresses are not all beautiful but dumb, as we said the other day, and there is no better witness that the opposite is true than the once glamorous star, May Allison.

The blonde and lovely May quit films as both have comfortable the screen two years ago when she married James Quirk, magazine editor, because she believed marriage is a career in itself and she wanted to make a success of her role as housewife.

May has never regretted her decision, she says. Quirk has many friends among writers and editors and naturally his wife heard much shop talk. She soon found herself taking part in these discussions
